POOR ROAD IS SEEN FOR NEW TARIFF BILL

Delay Apparent in Senate—Recess Counter to Wishes of Leaders

COMPROMISE PROBABLE
But Democratic Vote Will Be Required to Assure Ultimate Action

Washington—Out of a number of conflicting currents, the will of the senate has been expressed on the tariff and it is enveloped in the single word—delay.

The vote by which the Borah resolution to limit tariff revision to farm schedules was rejected did not reflect the innermost desire of the senate for it was not for the whole thing, an inevitable demand by certain constituencies for action, the tariff bill would have been unceremoniously dropped overboard.

Senator Borah may have won a victory despite the fact that the count is against him for the moment.
He has revealed that almost a majority of the senate does not like the house tariff bill and that when it comes to the final test, the possibilities of an indefinite deadlock are greater than ever.

By taking a recess now, the senate has gone counter to the wishes of the house leaders who had insisted that unless the senate agreed upon a definite date for a vote there would be no recess. But the Borah motion to take this definite date, it began to look as if the tariff revision so important to many house members would be imperiled altogether.

SENATE HELPS HOOVER
What President Hoover really thinks about the tangle may be disclosed in the near future but certainly he can derive considerable satisfaction from the fact that the senate has taken from his hands the job of killing the bill that passed the house. In a sense, Mr. Borah performed yeoman service for the administration in starting the controversy, the Jones amendment which would have permitted certain protective duties for industries that have recently been depressed, really represents the Hoover viewpoint or

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF TOWN IN NEW ZEALAND

Wellington, New Zealand—(AP)— Severe earthquakes were felt today in Murchison and Takaka-both, both of which were hard hit in the tremors of earlier in the week.
Considerable anxiety was felt as to the fate of the town of Lyell, containing 2,000 inhabitants, which was reported greatly damaged and from which no news was available.
Airlanes tried in vain to sight
the town, due to bad visibility. All roads leading to it were blocked.
There were rumors it had been wiped out but these were discounted.

FOUR DIE OF HEAT IN THREE MIDWEST STATES

Chicago—(AP)—Thunderstorms
early today attempted, without much luck to shake from the Chicago territory the oppressive heat of the past two days. Predictions, however, were for somewhat cooler by nightfall, as compared with the 90 degree heat of Tuesday.

Two deaths in Chicago, one in Wisconsin and a fourth in northern Michigan were attributed directly to the heat. There were numerous prostrations.

DOZEN DIE IN EAST

New York—(AP)—Eastern states today experienced their seventh successive day of scorching heat.
A dozen deaths from heat were reported yesterday. Some others died of drowning while seeking relief at bathing beaches. Prostrations were numerous. At some points it was the hottest June 18 ever recorded. In New York city the temperature reached 93 degrees; at Bloomsburg, Pa., 103 degrees.

MANITOWOC SCHOOL DISPUTE IN COURT

Manitowoc—(AP)—A dispute between the city council and the school board of Manitowoc, today was on its way to the courts.
Injunction proceedings aimed at restraining the board from turning over the old Third Ward high school building here to the vocational school for its use, are to be started by the council.
Such action was voted by the aldermen at the regular weekly session when it became known the vocational school was moving its equipment to the Third Ward institution.
During the long debate preceding the council's action, many personalities were indulged in, charges of dishonesty being made.

Rum Runner Fights 140 Face Federal Court In Bogus Whisky Plots

New York—(AP)—One hundred and forty individuals and firms were accused of participating in a nation-wide organization for the distribution of bogus whisky equipment.
Special treasury agents said the conspiracy was the largest that has been uncovered, with ramifications into a score of cities across the continent.
The defendants are charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act and with violation of a federal law forbidding the attachment of spurious revenue stamps to containers of spirituous liquors.

Their stock in trade included everything needed to pack and label ordinary bootleg whisky in imitation
of the product of foreign distilleries.
This included shavings from the inside of whisky barrels, blown to flavor synthetic liquor, bottles used in imitation of the containers of widely-known distilleries, labels, wrappers, corks, cases and bogus
internal revenue stamps.

The establishments accused in the indictments included distilleries from which the barrels were obtained, glass work, printing shops and manufacturers and dealers in other liques needed for the business.
The firm of Glickstein and Turner
in Brooklyn, one of those indicted, was said by federal agents to have been the headquarters of the ring.
Other cities where the organization operated included Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis,
Pittsburgh, Atlantic City, Miami, Albany, and Syracuse, N. Y. Providence and Woonsocket, R. I., Hartford,
New Haven, Conn., and Los Angeles.
The defendants include the Over-holt Distillery corporation, Inc. of Bradford, Pa., and the Sherwood Distilling company. These firms are accused of selling freshly emptied whisky barrels without treating them to prevent extraction of liquor
from the wood as required by law.

21 Held For Booze Sales To Indians

Federal Agents Begin Campaign Affecting Menominee Reservation

Milwaukee—(AP)—In an effort to curb the sale of liquor to Indians on the Menominee reservation, 21 bartenders and saloonkeepers of 17 saloons and roadhouses in Langlade and Shawanoc counties were arrested
last night for federal marshals.

By J. Koelzer, first assistant United States district attorney, declared that the liquor situation near the reservation has become intolerable.
The last cleanup of saloons in that district was made in 1925, he said.
Since then W. R. Deyer, superintendent at the reservation, has made complaints to the prohibition and district attorney's offices and even to the Federal Indian bureau.

Many of the crimes committed by Indians are due to liquor, Koelzer said. He has made several trips to the reservation.

The warrants were issued on evidence obtained by Seven Nelson and Adolph Feokler, undercover agents who have been in the district posing as fishermen.

W. Frank Cunningham, prohibition enforcement officer, believes that much of the liquor was made in the woods in the vicinity as many Kentuckians have settled there. He said no stills have been seized but that undoubtedly many would be confiscated later.

Four saloonkeepers were also arrested at Leona.

POSTMASTER AND WIFE HELD UNDER JONES ACT

Milwaukee—(AP)—Postmaster M.
N. Hurling of Dupontville, Waukeshau, and his wife face prosecution under the Jones "five and ten"
act as a result of a federal liquor raid on his bar. Undercover agents bought liquor there, it is alleged,
and the searches Tuesday afternoon found a gallon of liquor in the place, which adjoints the postoffice.
Both are held on bond.

Near Kewaskum, the agents seized a large distilling plant on the farm of Killian Flasch. Three stills, two in operation, were dismantled.
Meanwhile, deputy United States
marshals were serving warrants on 21 saloonkeepers in Shawano and Langlade cos. All are charged with Jones act violation. They will be arraigned at Shawano.

CHILD DROWNS DESPITE HEROISM OF BROTHER

Sheboygan—(AP)—Despite the heroism of his older brother and two companions, who risked their lives
in rescue attempts, Carl Mannchen, 7 year old son of Otto Mannchen, Kohler, was drowned while swimming in the Sheboygan river Tuesday evening.

Carl was caught in an undercurrent and dragged under the water.
Bobby Albrecht, 9, one of seven playmates swimming with the boy, went to the rescue and himself went down. He was followed by Renee Gehl, who met the same fate. Then Bobby Mannchen, 9, swam to the rescue, pulling Albrecht and Gehl to safety, but failing to save his brother.

CALL CONFERENCE IN JULY ON DEBT PLAN

Paris—(AP)—A conference of the government of the Young plan in-into effect could be called about the middle of July said Foreign Minister Briand today after a talk with Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, providing the other powers concerned agreed.
The conversations today were first between M. Briand and Dr. Strese-mann and later Premier Poincare participated. M. Briand described them as simply continuing talks he had with the German foreign minister at Madrid regarding the proceed-ure to be followed.

GLASS SCORES DRY ATTITUDE OF PRESIDENT

Booze Smuggler Takes Refuge in Canadian Waters After Battle

NO KNOWN CASUALTIES

Detroit and Other Cities
Pledge Hoover Support
but Deny Killings

Windsor, Ontario—(AP)—After a swift moving revolver battle in Detroit river today rum runners of the east Windsor sector retreated into Canadian waters after shooting a hole in the prow of a United States customs patrol cutter. There were no known casualties.

The rum runners deliberately opened fire without notice on the American boat, Walter S. Petty, acting collector of customs at Detroit, said. His men returned the volleys and chased the intruders back to the Canadian shore.

The battle started, Petty said,
when the rum craft was about 100 feet off the foot of Joseph Campau avenue, Detroit. The border patrol was gliding down the river when it was 50 feet from the runner when the crew of several men blazed away suddenly with revolvers, the bullets drumming against the government boat and blasting a hole above its water line.

"Our men returned the fire
promptly," Petty added. "The rum runners swung about and retreated toward Canada, maintaining a heavy fire at our boat." Petty charges that the firing from the rum boat
continued long after it had reached Canadian waters. The customs boat abandoned the chase at the international line. The police could not determine the number of men on the rum boat as they hid behind a high stack of liquor cases as they employed their guns at the oncoming customs cruiser.

FAVORS STATE GROUP FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Madison—(AP)—Another proposal to put the state in the business of selling liquor will be introduced in the Wisconsin legislature by Sen.
Een Gettelman of Milwaukee. His new plan calls for a state medical liquor commission which would sell beer, wine, or whiskey by the case on the citizen's own affidavit that the liquor would be used for medicinal purposes. No doctor's prescription would be required.

Gettelman's medicinal liquor commission would be composed of three members appointed by the government, drawing annual salaries of $5,000.
Because Wisconsin's constitution prohibits the state from engaging in business enterprises, Gettelman
plans to ask for a constitutional amendment to make the plan possible. His resolution for a state medical and brewery business asked of the legislature.

The new scheme was given to Milwaukee senator by W. Lafferty, New York attorney, who described himself as a former "La Follette-Lindbergh" member of congress.

SEVERAL HUNDRED WOMEN Attend Cooking School

That women believe the way to a man's heart is through his stomach was indisputably proved Tuesday afternoon when hundreds of women sat bravely through two hours of stifling heat to learn how to make new delicacies with which to tempt their husbands. They brought their notebooks and pencils, and while Mrs.
Margaret Brown, conductor of the Post-Crescent cooking school lectured and demonstrated, they took notes and concentrated intently on what was going on in the model kitchen
on the stage.

Sifting, measuring, pouring, Mrs.
Brown demonstrated the art and quickest methods of preparing the main dishes of a meal. At the same time she was grating the best of the ovens which was being heated
over, and the cow also was floor-
ed. Both were unharmed.

The physician attending Fred Poppy found his body blackened, and blood issuing from his mouth. While the man was still in an irrational state late in the evening, it is thought he will recover. It was difficult at that time to determine whether his skull had been fractured.

FARMER STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AS HE WORKS IN BARN

New London—Fred Poppy, a young farmer living near Poppy's Rocks in Mukwa was badly injured when struck by lightning on Tuesday evening, while emptying milk at the barn of his father, James Poppy. Lightning traveling along the iron track of a manure carrier, struck the young man, throwing him with such force to the concrete floor
that his right arm was broken.
At the same instant his father,
who was milking, was knocked
over, and the cow also was floor-
ed. Both were unharmed.

U. S. Customs Boat Tariff Bill Remains As Congress Takes Vacation

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington—(AP)—Congress will start a summer recess tonight preparatory to finishing up the last and perhaps the most controversial of the recommendations placed before it by President Hoover—tariff revision.

The senate will return Aug. 19,
by which time the finance committee promises to have completed its revision of the house tariff bill. The house, with its work all over except the negotiation of an adjustment with the senate on the tariff,
will remain in recess until Sept. 23,
when it hopes the senate will be through with the bill, but senate leaders concede that is an optimistic hope.

The extra session convened two months ago by Mr. Hoover to redeem the Republican campaign pledge of farm relief, will take its breathing spell with three of the other four proposals recommended by him enacted into law—a farm relief measure and the combined tariff and reappropriation legislation.
The other presidential proposition—suspension of the national origins

immigration quota basis—was turned down by the senate.
The senate also gave the administration considerable worry in the farm relief contest, twice insisting over the president's strong objection
on the export debenture plan as a part of that legislation. Similar and more extensive disagreements were expected by many to develop during the tariff discussion.

The break between the president and two of his outstanding pre-election campaigners—Senators Borah of Utah and Clegg of Oregon—was

Utility Bills Are Passed By Assembly

For State, Municipal Ownership—Also Competition With Private Firms

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin's assembly today stamped its emphatic approval on state and municipal ownership of utilities. The lower legislative house also went on record as favoring public and private utility competition. Its votes in favor of these schemes were two to one.

After a bitter fight that lasted more than two hours, the assembly passed three utility bills. The first by Alvin C. Reis, Madison, Progressive floor leader, would allow communities to band together in power districts, which districts could erect and maintain electric plants and lines. O. S. Loomis, Mauston, Progressive, saw his bill passed to allow municipal competition with private utilities, while another bill by Loomis was also approved requiring more detailed reports to the railroad commission from utilities.

SENT TO SENATE
So emphatic was the assembly passage that the bills were immediately messaged to the senate in order to shut off any attempts to reconsider them. Each of the bills had been ordered engrossed recently, and the assembly today refused to reconsider these votes, then suspended all rules that would have delayed construction for days or weeks and passed the bills.

After spending two hours on utilities, the assembly speeded its legislative machinery and disposed of two park bills, price fixing for fire insurance and minor matters.

The bill to create a state park in the Kettle Moraine area in Sheboygan co. was passed after brief discussion and immediately sent to the senate. A second park bill, by Sen.
C. B. Casperson, Frederic, to buy the Seven Pines park in Polk co., by levying a surtax on incomes above $3,000 was concurred in by the assembly.

The measure introduced by Assemblyman Carleton Maunth, Fond du Lac, to allow stock fire insurance companies to leave the rate body, which he characterized as monopolistic, was killed 74 to 9.

MEYERS IS RELEASED IN HIX SLAYING CASE

Columbus, O.—(AP)—Marion T.
Meyers, one of the two men held in the investigation of the Theora Hix hammer murder, was released at noon today by County Prosecutor
John J. Chester, Jr. Dr. James H.
Snook, deceased university professor,
was still held in connection with the investigation.

Meyers' release came after Prosecutor Chester questioned him for an hour and a half this morning. Chester said that he was convinced that Meyers knew more about the girl's death than he had told investigators,
but declared that he was of the opinion that Meyers had no direct connection with the crime.

Meyers maintained throughout he knew nothing of the crime and that he had broken off relations with Miss Hix last October.

$15,000 MORE VOTED FOR INDIAN INQUIRY

Washington—(AP)—A resolution setting aside an additional $15,000
for use of the senate Indian affairs committee in extending its investigation of the Indian bureau into several western states during the recess was adopted today by the senate without debate.

Chairman Frazier said he would call the committee together tomorrow to take action on plans for the trip west, which probably will be made early in July.

Present plans, he said, contemplated hearings in Oklahoma, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Montana, with the probability that the committee will visit other western states later.

HUNT CASUALTIES NEAR CRATER OF KOMAGATAKE

ties ventured near the crater of the volcano Komagatake today seeking traces of large numbers of persons rapidly becoming quiescent.

WITNESS SAYS HE SAW GIESE ON MACHINES

Told to Talk to Kelly About Return of Confiscated Slot Machines

PRISONER RELEASED Freed After Two Days but Sheriff Puts in Bill for Ten Days Board

Sheriff Fred W. Giese, whose office is under investigation in John Doe proceedings before Judge Theodore Berg here, advised the Haave, proprietor of the Log Cabin, a result on Highway 12, to see Dan Kelly, turnkey at the county jail,
about the return of slot machines confiscated in a raid by the sheriff's department. Mr. Haave testified yesterday afternoon under examination by Stanley A. Staidl, district attorney.

"I met Sheriff Giese outside his office in the courthouse and asked him whether I could get my machines back and see Kelly," Haave testified. Two weeks later Kelly advised Haave to come to the jail
and the next morning, after brief negotiations, Haave paid $30 each for two machines and they were returned to him, the testimony showed.

GIESE HAD KEYS
Haave wasn't certain whether any money was taken out of the slot machines while they were in the sheriff's custody because he didn't know if they had any in the machines when they were taken but the testimony revealed that the keys to the machines were delivered to Sheriff Giese the same day that Boyd Rauder, arrested when the machines were confiscated, paid a fine in municipal court.

An adjournment to July 1 was abruptly taken about 4 o'clock when Mr. Staidl explained that several witnesses had not been reached with the court over until next week but Judge Berg explained that his calendar would not permit the hearing
until the week following.

The John Doe proceedings were instituted on which to base a petition to Governor Walter J. Kohler to investigate the sheriff's office. If sufficient testimony is produced to show misconduct in the sheriff's department the matter will be laid before the governor for action.

PRISONER RELEASED EVIDENCE INTRODUCED YESTERDAY

Evidence introduced yesterday indicated that more money had been paid to Mr. Kelly to protection and that a prisoner had been released from jail before the expiration of his 10 day term upon payment of his fine, that this fine money had not been turned over to the county treasurer and that the sheriff had put in a bill for ten days board for the prisoner although he actually served less than two days in jail.

The prisoner was Robert Rausch, known if he had been arrested in Appleton in March and sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail for drunkness when he was unable to pay a $10 fine.

Rausch testified that about a day and a half after he was committed to jail his sister at Neenah arranged to get the money to pay his fine and that he was then released from jail. He said that Mr. Kelly had gone to Neenah and collected the money.

Testimony offered by John E.
Hantelch, county clerk from the county records showed that Sheriff Giese had collected for 20 days board for Rausch, or $3 and Miss Marie Ziegenfuss, county treasurer, was placed on the stand to prove she had not received the fine money from
Mr. Giese.

Payment of $235 was made to the county treasurer on Feb. 12 for money received from slot machines
according to testimony offered by Miss Ziegenfuss.

She also testified that on June 5

FIX FINAL VALUATION OF PENNSYLVANIA ROAD

Washington—(AP)—A final valuation of $1,612,114,371 was placed today by the Interstate Commerce commission on the property of 68 of the companies in the Pennsylvania railroad system.

Some of the properties were valued as of June 30, 1916, and others as of June 30, 1917, and June 30, 1919.

Simultaneously with the valuation announcement by the commission Thomas W. Hulme, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad in charge of real estate, taxes and valuation, issued a statement in which he said the findings of the commission were for a period from ten to fifteen years ago "and are not reflective on present conditions."

The valuation was decided Jan. 15, before the decision of the United States court in the O'Fallon valuation case.

Camera Man Kidnaped For Rum Runner Photographs

Windsor, Ont.—(AP)—Provincial police today were seeking a band of rum runners who kidnaped a newspaper photographer, threatened to throw him into the river and released him only after they had confiscated films he had taken of their activities.

Horace Wild, 45, a photographer for the Windsor Cities Star, accompanied by two reporters and his son, Noel, aged 18, were cruising on the Detroit river near Amherstburg when their activities aroused the anger of a score or more of rum runners who were loading their cargoes for the night's run.

The rum runners piled into four automobiles, keeping pace with the boat along the shore road and posted guards on all roads leading from the river bank. With the view of throwing off their pursuers, Wild and his son, alighted at a private dock while the boat continued upstream with the two newspapermen.

Wild hid his camera in the brush along the bank but he and his son were captured by nearly a dozen men when they reached the highway. The son was searched and released but the elder Wild was placed in an automobile, forced to reveal the hiding place of his camera and then taken to an export dock where he said some of the men suggested he be thrown into the river.

Officers of the Star, learning of the plight of their photographer, notified the provincial police but before their arrival Wild had been released by a dock official. The police escorted him back to the dock in an effort to identify his captors but the men had disappeared. Dock officials declared the kidnappers were Detroit rum runners and had returned to the United States. Inspector Arthur Moss said charges of kidnapping would be preferred against the men if their identity could be established.

LINDY SENDS CABLE TO THREE FRENCHMEN ON HOP TO EUROPE

Just Learned of Crossing, He Says; Trio Wires Thanks to American

Paris—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today cabled his congratulations to Jean Armand, Rene LeFevre, and Armento Lotti, Jr., for their transatlantic flight from Old Orchard, Me., to Comillas, Spain, in the Yellow Bird.

The colonel's message, addressed to all three of the aviators, said: "On returning to New York I have just learned of your successful crossing. Please accept my sincere congratulations and best wishes."

The French fliers immediately cabled him in answer: "We thank you most heartily for greatest claim to glory has been to have followed the route you traced two years ago with incomparable mastery in your flight from New York to Paris."

"Your magnificent example of courage, of tenacity, of science as a pilot and navigator, guided us every instant of our route. We address to you our most cordial and respectful salutations."

Another cablegram was received, from Mr. and Mrs. Schreiber, parents of the stowaway, Arthur Schreiber, the message tending further to mitigate the bad impressions which he has created.

The cablegram said: "Accept our thanks for kindness and tolerance shown our son by France's three heroes of the air. Extend our appreciation to Mr. Lotti, Sr., and Madame Lotti for their parental guidance toward Arthur."

The governmental receptions today were for the three aviators alone, the stowaway not being included. He was entirely out of the picture, pending his return Thursday to the United States probably aboard the Leviathan.

The aviators were taken by M. Laurent-Eynan, minister of air, to Premier Poincare, who lauded their courage and praised their exploit. Later they went to the senate where they were received and praised. They were to visit President Doumergue later this afternoon.

POPE PIUS TO RULE ON PACT WITH MEXICO

His Approval All That's Needed to Make Agreement Effective

Mexico City—(AP)—The Mexican government and emissaries of the Vatican have agreed upon a basis of settlement of the Mexican religious controversy, approval of the pope today was all that was needed to make the agreement effective and permit an episcopate order returning the priests to Mexican churches.

The settlement, as arrived at by President Portes Gil and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores of Michoacan, and Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco, with Ambassador Morrow as intermediary, does not involve a constitutional change, but merely a broader interpretation of the religious laws and their constitutional background.

The agreement is similar, if not identical, to that reached last year in negotiations between President Calles and Archbishop Ruiz, which had their beginning in a secret meeting in the old fortress at San Juan de Ula, island in the harbor of Vera Cruz. Vatican approval at that time was delayed, until in July the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon, president elect, with ensuing charges of Roman Catholic participation, complicated the situation.

WIRE TERMS TO POPE

The settlement was reached Monday afternoon in the course of conferences between Ambassador Morrow and President Portes Gil, and Archbishop Ruiz. Monday night a cablegram containing its terms was sent to Pope Pius at Vatican City.

The ambassador's part in the negotiations emerged from the secret into the more or less open during its final stages, with long conferences with the bishops and with the president Saturday and Monday, and finally yesterday, after the widespread popular belief in Mexico that he paved the way also for the Calles negotiations a year ago and the preliminary negotiations in the present case.

An authoritative source stated today that unless the Vatican ratified the present settlement, and acts quickly on it, there is not much possibility that anything further will be accomplished toward settlement for some time to come.

Papal sanction of the agreement would be followed immediately, it was believed here today, by governmental announcement of the accord. Archbishop Ruiz as Mexican primate, would then instruct the bishops to order the Mexican clergy to return to the churches, from which they have been absent since August.

Yellow Bird Stowaway No Longer Feels So Airy

Paris—(AP)—Arthur Schreiber, the Portland, Me., youth who stowed away on the transatlantic plane, Yellow Bird, has repented of his act and has lost the exuberance which marked his demeanor since first he arrived here.

"I know I did wrong," he said. "I ought not to have risked the lives of the French aviators, I recognize they have been very generous with me and ask nothing better than that they reap the whole benefit of their adventure."

"I got into the plane of my own volition and without knowledge of any member of the crew. I did it without realizing the danger that resulted from the additional weight. I am sorry."

Armento Lotti, financial backer of the flight and the Yellow Bird's radio operator, interrupted the stowaway with a statement he would go back to America Thursday aboard the Leviathan or the President Harding, "with all our sympathy."

"I cannot deny the conditions which resulted from his presence, aboard the Yellow Bird," he said. "But he was an American and that meant a lot to us. When we landed after all the hardships endured together—we considered him as a member of the crew."

CORONER'S JURY FINDS M'CLUNE KILLED WOMAN

Santa Ana, Calif.—(AP)—A coroner's jury, after an inquest into the death of Mrs. Myrtle Wood, 40, of Long Beach, returned a verdict yesterday that the woman "came to her death through a shot fired with homicidal intent by John McClure, 38, real estate dealer."

Mrs. Wood's body was found behind a billboard at Laguna Beach Saturday after she had disappeared from here Long Beach home Thursday night. McClure, who admitted he was a suitor of Mrs. Wood, a widow, was found wandering near Tijuana, Mexico, a few hours later. He was wounded and said he was accosted by robbers who kidnapped him while he was riding with Mrs. Wood.

CANNING FACTORY DEDICATED LAST NIGHT AT SEYMOUR

Machinery Is Put Into Operation Wednesday Morning

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour — At one of the largest and most successful get-together meetings of farmers and city business men ever held here of the state, the new factory of the Seymour Canning Company was dedicated Tuesday night at a banquet in the upper story of the new building, sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Seymour. More than 300 farmers and their wives were guests of the club, and the total attendance exceeded 400.

The new building is a commodious structure, equipped with the latest improved machinery and is said to be the best and most complete cannery in this part of the state. The machinery was started Wednesday morning to can sauerkraut.

In response to a toast, H. J. Selmer, president of the Seymour Canning company, and the designer and builder of the new plant, said that John Stewart was responsible for the establishment of the cannery. "It is a wonderful pleasure for me to see you all here," said Mr. Selmer. "This is the first party we have had in the plant since the recent improvements were made and the third since the original plant was started. We have succeeded in our dream of several years ago to have a big up-to-date plant in Seymour. We started three years ago with one unit of our dream, built the second unit the following year, and made this big addition this season. And yet it appears to me now that we have only begun in the development of the canning industry in and about Seymour. I know that the canning company needs the cooperation of its labor, the business men of Seymour and the farmers about the city."

"Although we are shipping canned goods to consumption points from the Atlantic to the Gulf of Mexico and half way across the continent, I feel the expansion of the Seymour Canning Company has just begun and that in a short time we shall reach the Pacific Ocean with our goods."

"Nearly everyone in our county and every other county believes in cooperation but the majority are perfectly willing to let the other fellow do the cooperating," said Judge L. Albert Karel, president of the State Bank of Kewaunee. "But in order to succeed cooperation should begin at home."

"Every vegetable on this table was Furnished by the Seymour Canning company," said toastmaster Waite. "We have had several get-together meetings in the past but never one before equal to this. If you farmers have any problems that are difficult to solve, you are invited to call on the Kiwanis Club for assistance."

Miss Helen Ruth Selmer, daughter of the president of the canning company, played a piano solo. The awarding of prizes created the maximum of merriment as did a humorous talk by H. L. Bowby, Appleton. Gib Horst's Orchestra played. Lealand K. Forest, Seymour, acted as song master.

FLOOR OF ARMORY TO BE BLANKET OF FLOWERS AT SHOW

Hundreds of Bouquets Will Be Entered for Exhibition

The entire floor of Armory G will be a profusion of flowers next Saturday and Sunday during the flower show sponsored by the Flower and Garden society. Literally hundreds of the bouquets will be entered by private growers and there will be dozens of huge exhibits by professionals.

Arrangements for receiving the flowers and placing them on the stands for exhibition are almost completed. There will be attendants at the Armory Saturday morning to take the flowers from exhibitors, assist in filling out the entry cards and arrange the exhibits on the tables.

Announcement was made Tuesday that the Treasure Box would have an exhibit at the show, and more professional florists have indicated a desire to take part in the exhibition. All kinds of flowers in bloom at this season will be accepted for exhibition and will be in competition for the ribbon prizes and the prizes of roots and bulbs that have been offered. Experts will be at the Armory Saturday morning to classify the flowers as to variety and class and properly arranging their flowers.

There need be no hesitancy about exhibiting flowers because of inexperience in their preparation. A large number of prizes are offered for the most attractive bouquets, shadow boxes and baskets and it is believed there will be a large number of exhibits of this nature. Judging is to start at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon and exhibits must be entered by noon.

A used car that paid for itself in one summer

A MAN who bought a camp in the woods last summer said that he and his wife decided not to take their new car with them. "We had seen too many beautiful cars hurt by the rough treatment they get at camp."

They bought a sturdy but very inexpensive used car. "Aside from the great convenience of having a car in the city and another car in the country," he said, "we figure that the used car paid for itself in saving wear and tear on our new car."

In selling more than a million and a half new cars every year, General Motors dealers accept many used cars in trade.

Every one is unused transportation and represents a real bargain for somebody.

General Motors urges its dealers to move their used cars quickly, at fair prices, and in a way to build public good will. It cooperates with them by providing the convenient GMAC Payment Plan for both new car and used car sales.

CARRIAGE MUDDLE BECOMING WORSE IN NEW YORK CITY

Another Taxi Company
Seeks to Enter Business
There With 5,000 Cars

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)
New York—Being a big, up and coming town, and knowing what's going on in the world, New York has passed laws making it a misdemeanor to operate an airplane while intoxicated or to run a snowmobile without a license. But its earthbound, presumably sober and certainly personing citizens find less explicit statutes governing their welfare and comfort.

Today, there are appearing before Grover Whalen, New York's patriarchal chief of police, hundreds of taxicab drivers to engage in a sort of open seminar as to whether a new cut rate taxi company shall be allowed to enter the city. They expect to talk it out on these lines if it takes all summer, and in the meantime the transportation muddle is becoming worse.

The elaborate theatre district traffic regulation of a few months ago, of which Commissioner Whalen was the impresario, was just the flick of a willow on the on the collared haunch of a Missouri mule, cross-town taxi travelers now carry overnight bags and shaving kits.

There are now 30,625 licensed taxicabs in New York. The new concern proposes to bring in 5,000 more, or as many more as it may profitably operate. Its preliminary honk about lower rates is a welcome noise, but bedeviled citizens are appalled at the thought of running more automobiles loose in the streets of New York. Within the last year the tide of population unmistakably has set back to Manhattan, from the suburbs and outlying boroughs. It has been a record year for new skyscrapers. Bottled up on its island New York finds 1,833 of its 4,702 miles of streets still unpaved. Famous thoroughfares are log-jammed with automobiles. In each 24 hours, there are collected $45,120 taxi fares.

PROBLEM IS PUZZLING
Commissioner Whalen knew he had puzzle on his hands. He began picking at it by an intent scrutiny of the meter for the new cabs. It seemed to work alright so he called the boys in for a conference. The city has both a transit commission and a board of transportation, and it has generously subsidized its subways in order to maintain the five-cent fare, but it has left the onrush of the taxicab to dubious legal guidance and to the unpredictable reaction of its Napoleonic police commissioner, when confronted with a new taximeter.

As in other cities there has arisen consideration of placing taxicabs under public utility and regulation, with the issuance of a certificate of necessity and convenience by a state utilities commission. Curiously enough, the drive in this direction has involved airplanes before taxicabs. Oklahoma, Kansas, California and other states are toying in the airplanes under state utility laws, but the taxicab is still a maverick. In New York state the public service commission law, enacted in 1907, has been under a heavy fire during the last year but its critics the tariff troubles of New York City are charged to its need for renovation and general overhauling. The New York transit commission and the board of transportation have overlapping and somewhat conflicting powers, and there is confusion and complexity in all traffic regulation—so far as constructive planning is concerned which will require some big legal shake-up before there can be an intelligent adaptation of vehicular traffic to public needs.

BATTLE IS SEEN
Last year in New York city there were 25,150 persons killed or injured by taxicabs. As the new company arrives the established companies threaten to give battle and little Belgium had no worse prospect of being overrun by contending hosts. The new company makes a convincing showing of sound equipment and resources and no one has discovered any existing legal reason as to why it is not as fully entitled as any other concern to use the glutted streets for its hunting ground. Its opponents insist that a taxi war will put a premium on speed and reckless driving, skipping on tires and repairs and more congestion and chaos.

New York is working feverishly on tunnel and bridge plans. About 190,000 vehicles and 1,400,000 pedestrians cross the four vehicular bridges connecting Manhattan with Brooklyn. The Holland tunnel under the Hud-

CAMPION COLLEGE IS GIVEN HONOR RATING

Prairie Du Chien—(C)—Campion college here is among the seven honor schools for the sixth corps area of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

A letter from area headquarters to the Rev. E. J. Quinn, president of Campion, advised that his school is in fifth place, with an average of 85. The highest average in the area, which includes R. O. T. C. units at Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan state universities, was 87.7. All units of the R. O. T. C. are inspected annually and seven schools of the seven districts are recommended for War Department honors.

Campion is the only Catholic school in the honor list and the only Wisconsin junior unit to receive the rating.

Lieut. A. G. Phillips, detached officer of the line, infantry, is commanding officer at Campion.

Y DEPARTMENT TO STAGE 2 TOURNEYS

Plans are being formulated for an interdepartment tennis tournament, for youngsters of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. One tournament will be staged for boys under 15 years of age and the other for older boys according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary. Play will begin next week.

son river to New Jersey, accommodates about 30,000 automobiles each day. But, with these outlets, handling such tremendous traffic, the turning flood is becoming all but unmanageable and the city is threatened with dangerous laws, discomfort and confusion unless it can find some means of moving its population.

Out of it all has come a vigorous "walk to work" movement and the rapid growth of new apartment buildings within walking distance of the main office centers.

Hardly Knew Friend Who Had Taken Sargon

Wonderful Improvement
Prompted Wood to Take Medicine. Regains Health and 17 Pounds

"One of my close friends who suffered with the same trouble I did, dropped into my place of business some time back, and he looked so well I hardly knew him. I asked him what he had been doing for himself. He told me I could regain my health just as he did, if I'd listen to him and do as he told me. Then he told me he had been taking Sargon for two months, and advised me to begin taking it at once.

ALBERT D. WOOD

"I will always be grateful to him for starting me on the right road to health. I'm filled with new life and energy, and have gained seventeen pounds.

"I had stomach trouble, and most everything I ate upset me. My appetite was poor, and I couldn't retain my food. I became dreadfully weak and rundown. I was badly constipated, and had to take a laxative every night. My liver was inactive, and my complexion yellowish. I had headaches and dizzy spells every few days. I kept losing weight, and was going down hill rapidly. I tried different medicines, but the effects would wear off, and it looked like I couldn't get back my health.

"Sargon has ended all my troubles and built me back to splendid health.

"I've a fine appetite now and my stomach doesn't bother me in the least. My complexion has cleared up. Those dizzy spells and headaches are gone. I've plenty of energy and I can work long hours without becoming tired and worn out.

"My friends remark how well and healthy I look, and naturally they want to know why, and it always gives me pleasure to tell them about Sargon.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills freed me of constipation and stimulated my liver. They don't gripe or cause any bad after-effects.

The above statement was recently made by Albert D. Wood, owner of the Downey, Flake Do-nut and Sandwich Shop 151 Third St., Milwaukee.

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

PROHIBITION KILLINGS

Washington dispatches are to the effect that President Hoover has intervened to stop the reckless and promiscuous killings in prohibition enforcement. Almost every day recently news reports have contained accounts of the shooting of men in various parts of the country by federal agents. Little or no satisfaction was obtained from the head of the enforcement department, Seymour Lowman, who was inclined to defend and justify this manslaughter or murder, as the case may be. The situation finally became so serious that President Hoover held a conference with the officials of the treasury and justice departments. Following the conference announcement was made by Mr. Lowman that use of riot guns by members of the United States customs liquor control was forbidden. This means that their firearms will be limited to pistols. Rifles and sawed off shot guns are barred.

The next step should be to stop firing on automobiles and vessels merely on suspicion. There should be substantial evidence on which to make arrests and to intercept bootleggers and rumrunners. This evidence should not be difficult to obtain where habitual violators of the law are involved. Where rumrunners and bootleggers are positively known and identified the use of force to capture them is of course warranted. Even here, however, there should be no authority to kill except in self-defense or in saving the lives of others.

On the other side of the picture, we must not forget that what promises to be a successful protest against widespread killings and demand for limitation of search and seizure will stimulate rumrunners and bootleggers to greater activity on borders and coasts. It is the duty of the government to deal with these "international criminals," as President Hoover aptly terms them, sternly and as effectively as the means at its command will permit. The president may be expected to stand his ground firmly on this point. The barriers cannot be let down to wholesale violation of the law by the consent or connivance of the government.

So long as prohibition is the law there must be a bonafide attempt to enforce it. There never has been such an attempt in the past, but if it is undertaken by the administration of President Hoover it should receive public approval. Mr. Hoover's intervention for the modification of enforcement policies is a step in the right direction. After all, the responsibility for this policy devolves upon him and it is a good thing to see him accept it.

THE AGE OF FAITH

At a time when religious faith is generally regarded as breaking down, and thoughtful men and women are wondering what is to become of an unbelieving race, a college commencement speaker boldly declares: "The great age of faith lies in the future; it is just beginning." He reasons this way: "Scientific progress has, indeed, upset the old faith. But it is only a temporary upset. Man is being freed from the fear of want, from physical and brutish forces, which have always dominated the world in the past. The sudden mass of knowledge has swept men off their feet. Science, the slave of man, has broken from his control, and is 'usurping the very throne of God.'"

But nobody can worship science. For science is merely of the mind, and worship is of the soul. And science, by driving out our old fears and giving us assurance of world-mastery, paves the way for a new faith. There grows up the conception of a God of order, justice and purpose, ruling a greater universe than men formerly imagined, guiding it all for the best, and giving man an ever greater part to play in it. There is a faith developing which holds men not as mere puppets of fate or worms of the dust, but as co-workers with God in constructive effort for which there is no limit.

DAWES MAKES HISTORY

Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, is making diplomatic history fast. Already he has established precedents that may go far toward breaking down the moth-eaten and circuitous practices of diplomacy, and putting it on a frank, commonsense, business-like basis. Of all the conventions of the world that could stand remodeling, those that have to do with the handling of international relations occupy first place. The new British-prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is a particeps criminis to this revolutionary procedure.

Without waiting for a ceremonial visit from the new envoy, the British premier goes to a quiet little town in Scotland to receive him and to talk over for the first time matters of great moment to both countries. Many of the old guard in England were shocked at the sight of a dignified ambassador landing at Southampton one day, proceeding to London post haste to be received by the king, and the same night departing by sleeper to a distant point in Scotland to meet the prime minister. They shook their heads in doubt and misgiving. Such frankness and friendliness could bring no good. Nevertheless, this simple, direct diplomacy is of a type that will appeal peculiarly to Americans and there are evidences that it will appeal to large numbers of the British.

In referring to disarmament Premier MacDonald said: "Determination exists on both sides of the Atlantic to come to a firm understanding. We will open the whole question, and nothing that human beings can remove will stand in the way of attainment of permanent peace." It is the brushing aside of diplomacy and admiralty in this fashion that will solve the problem, quicker than any other way. Moreover, it will be solved in fairness and justice, to both nations.

The meeting of MacDonald and Dawes at Forres was a frank discussion of disarmament. "We have," said Mr. MacDonald, "had a conversation regarding the present position of the question of naval disarmament as between the United States and Great Britain. It has been informal and general, and most satisfactory. * * * We both wish to make it clear that the other naval powers are expected to cooperate in these negotiations on the successful consummation of which the peace of the whole world must depend."

Thus is commenced direct negotiations for determination of a difference that repeated conferences and devious diplomacy have been unable to reach. Undoubtedly it will lead to agreement. Where there is a will to do there is a way to be found. There is every reason to expect that Dawes and MacDonald will come to an understanding that will pave the way not only to genuine disarmament, but to a satisfactory adjustment of all the relations between the two countries. We see the first blow at old time diplomacy struck at Forres. It is a memorable event. It is of the very highest significance in foreign affairs. It offers the most effective way to bring nations close together, and to a composition of misunderstanding. It is the most potent agency of peace that can be devised. In the hands of sincere, honest men, determined to do what is right, and to promote peace, it is irresistible.

A WELCOME VISITOR

The prospect that Ramsay MacDonald, new Labor premier of Great Britain, is to visit the United States is big news and pleasant news.

MacDonald, more than any other British statesmen within memory, seems to be the sort of man that this nation will take to its heart. The fact that he represents labor may or may not be important. He has been premier before, and has shown no radicalism of a sort to scare this rather conservative country. The important thing about the man is his broad, simple humanity.

If he comes, he comes as a messenger of peace, and that pleases Americans. His foremost article of international policy is friendship and cooperation with America. He has two great ambitions—to provide jobs for British workmen, and to reduce armament. The latter purpose can be promoted in no way more effectively than by personal negotiation with the president of the United States.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—The Bowery lost a landmark rich in the city's theatrical history when the Thalia theater burned recently for the sixth and last time. But the wailing heard around the century-old Thespian temple the morning after the fire was not for the loss of a building. It was for the loss of the Misses Lenn Po-Hing and Lee Foy-Fong and other stage darlings of Chinatown. For the Misses Lenn Po-Hing and Lee Foy-Fong are prima donnas of Chinese opera and their costumes—ah, what gorgeous creations of silk and jewels and beads—were ruined. So the Misses Lenn Po-Hing and Lee Foy-Fong turned loose the tears of $15,000-a-year temperaments when they saw what had happened to their $40,000 wardrobe.

Even the ordinary actors and actresses, whose wardrobes cost at least $1,000 each, broke down and wept in their Brooklyn dormitory after an Irish cop had, with much difficulty, awakened them and conveyed the sad news.

CHINESE DRAMATICS
The Thalia, the destroyed of the only Chinese theater in the city, had the folk of Mott and Ten streets are not to be denied their ancient opera. Another Bowery theater is being leased by the Chinese Merchants' association, of which Charles King of Newark is president.

Fortunately some of the costumes were salvaged, for they can not be duplicated over here. And anyone who has seen a Chinese opera knows the costumes are all-important. Stage properties are few. The customers pay from $1 to $5 to hear the music and see the costumes and they look and listen five hours, from seven to midnight, without intermission. It is very leisurely and sing-songy to western ears. A character comes on the stage and sings one song that lasts a half-hour. Then there's a little dramatic action, such as sword play, and another half-hour song. Late comers can pick up the story at any point by reading a libretto handed out at the door.

The Chinese only recently have begun to enjoy plays of the kind Americans know, says Paul Po-Chi Fung, director of the Chinese drama club. They have been mostly operatic like "The Dream of T'ang Sing Hwang," which tells about an ancient dynasty who got drunk with his favorite court girl and took a trip to the moon.

The Chinese dramatic club, the Little Theater of Chinatown, is introducing, however, such modern dramas as "Nothing But the Truth."

HISTORIC THEATER

The Thalia theater was built 103 years ago and was first named the Bowery. In the time of Andrew Jackson the Thalia was the most elegant architectural edifice in the city. Junius Brutus Booth, Edwin Forrest, Charlotte Cushman and Maltrian played there. Then it came in the past 50 years the center successively of German, Yiddish, Italian and finally Chinese drama. Its successor probably will be a loft building.

Today's Anniversary

STATE OF LIBERTY

Forty-four years ago today the Statue of Liberty was received for New York harbor from France.

The statue was presented to the United States in commemoration of the traditional good will existing between the two countries and is situated on Liberty Island in New York harbor.

The statue weighs 25 tons and cost $200,000, defrayed by popular subscription in France. The figure is of repousse copper—351 feet in height, is crowned with a diadem, and holds in its extended right hand a torch. The left arm clasps close to the body a tablet bearing the inscription: "July 4, 1776."

The pedestal is 155 feet high and is constructed of granite and concrete. It cost $250,000 and was paid for by popular subscription in the United States.

Although received on June 19, 1885, the statue was not unveiled until October, 1886. Some of its dimensions will prove interesting. The nose is 4 feet long; the right forefinger, 8 feet long and 5 feet in circumference; and the head, 14 feet high.

Flying against the lighted torch of the statue, as many as 1,500 birds have killed themselves in one night.

THE FALLACY OF FIGHTING IT OFF

As a general rule the notion of "fighting off" an oncoming illness or threatened illness is a mere excuse for neglecting treatment and hoping against hope, and that is not good psychology. Common sense first! writes a reader, "and medicine afterward. Am I right when I say that many times medicine is given when it is wholly unnecessary? For instance, when I have a cold or am threatened with something of the kind, sore muscles, bowels refuse to move, etc., instead of taking cold remedies I resort to spitting wood, hoking or some other vigorous outdoor exercise followed by a hot bath and rubdown. The reader is right, though he doesn't put it quite correctly. About 80 per cent of all the medicine that is taken in America is taken without medical sanction and indeed against medical advice, and I imagine a large part of this unnecessary and actually harmful medicine is taken by folk who pride themselves on having "common sense."

The practice recommended by the reader is far better than resorting to a "cold cure" or a pain killer, at any rate, and it recalls to mind a belief we had as boys, that a brisk game of tag or something to get warmed up and sweating, was pretty good remedy for beginning earache. Now, alas almost every acute earache spells infection of the middle ear, from the nose or throat, by way of the eustachian tube, a complication or sequel of some nose or throat inflammation. I still believe vigorous open air exercise such as the correspondent suggests may be the best treatment for mild infections of this character, though I do not think the bath or rub down after the exercise is of any importance, and that may be left to the preference of the individual.

In the early stages of any severe infection, such as pneumonia, typhoid fever, influenza, such an effort might do great injury. The intelligent thing to do when one is coming down with a real illness, or when one even thinks such illness "threatens," is to get into bed and stay there until a physician assures one it is safe to get up. Or if one is unwilling to have medical advice, then stay in bed until it is certain that the illness is not developing. Clearly the attempt to "fight off a cold" is a gamble, and who can afford to gamble with health?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sugar Cured

A dispatch from Vienna says that three ounces of sugar water taken four times a day before meals will cure gastric or duodenal ulcer (L. D.). Answer—And that isn't the funniest yarn that ever came out of Vienna.

Diathermy for Hemorrhoids

You have never mentioned in your talks about the chemical obliteration of varicose veins, whether the treatment is used for hemorrhoids? You said hemorrhoids are varicose veins. Couldn't the same method be used (C. J.).

Answer—No, because when the varicose vein is injected it is shut off above and below while the chemical is being introduced. This would not be practicable in hemorrhoids. But doctors equipped with diathermy apparatus are using this new agent in hemorrhoids, with considerable satisfaction. Diathermy is the new method of obliterating enlarged or infected tonsils, by desiccation. It is equally useful in the treatment of enlarged turbinate body in the nose and of adenoids.

Mineral Oil

Is a small amount of (one of the) major brands of liquid petroleum (or mineral oil) taken for your bowels

injuriously to health? I use a pint of it every three weeks. (O. M. R.). Answer—Comparatively harmless. I believe ordinary soft petroleum, the white kind or the more familiar yellow kind, is even better, if one can overcome repugnance for it. Why depend on such an aid? Switch to flaxseed—a teaspoonful or two of the whole raw seeds—daily. After a few weeks forget the dose now and then. Forget it more and more. If you will forget it altogether you need have no further trouble. Constipation is usually just a bad habit of interference.

No, No, Naughty! May I ask you if you cause high blood pressure and how the heart is affected by same, and any other information you have to enlighten on this matter. (B. E. C.). Answer—No. But if you tell me you have high blood pressure or anything like that, I may have some health suggestions to give you. I have no bad news to distribute. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—A frankly nervous and humble, yet fascinated, Norma Talmadge is now working on her first talkie. She who shares with Mary Pickford and a few others the honor of pioneering in the silent picture some 14 or 15 years ago, who has worked up to a leading position in the rapidly declining art of the voiceless movie, now is undertaking, frankly as an untold number to carve for herself a niche in the new field dedicated to the talkie-famous.

Although she has been preparing for the change, with vocal instructions from the noted actress, Laura Hope Crewes, and now has almost conquered the first agonizing pangs of microphone fright, she admits a certain reluctance to abandon the field in which she attained her fame. "It is," she confesses, "a ripping laugh at the homely simile, 'like changing one's toothpaste—you just don't like to do it.'"

SEES FUTURE PERFECTION
Norma Talmadge sees in the new taking medium infinitely greater dramatic opportunities except in love scenes, for the whispered nothings of "Camille," for instance, would lose their pantomimic charm if expressed microphonically. "I love you," if love you! would become terribly monotonous in a talkie," she smiles.

But she believes that while talkies now sacrifice scenic effects for dialogue—effects such as those which the silent "Camille" left in the memory of rose-sprinkled bowers and silken-draped boudoirs, photographic art soon will arise to the challenge of dialog films. "Tin Pan Alley" is an adventure for many of its principals, besides Miss Talmadge. The director, Lewis Milestone; Gilbert Roland, again her leading man; and John Wray, from the stage, yet must experience their art in a talkie. "But I remember my old Vitaphone days," Miss Talmadge recalls. "I used to love the odor of the eye-brow pencil—yes, I know they speak of the smell of grease paint, but with me it was the pencil. I would rush to the studio to put it on. "It is the same now; we are all nervous about it, and yet we rush to work. Still, we are all afraid! My next talkie? But will there be a next one? Then pluckily: "But why not? Why should I feel this way? All the silent film players have come through gloriously—and I must, too!" (Again that nervous laughter.)

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—In a small unpretentious office at the far end of the Munitions building a pleasant bespectacled engineer is busy at his desk and retire. He is Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and for more than a quarter of a century one of the world's greatest authorities on flood control and waterways. He is only 63 years old and doesn't look his age. Mild and unassuming, he may be found at almost any time in his small office smoking his favorite cigar and studying the vast array of maps and charts that clutter his desk.

On August 7 he leaves it all. With the rank of lieutenant general and a reputation that is world-wide he looks forward to spending the remaining years of his life in comparative seclusion.

Few people know the extent of General Jadwin's experience with large engineering projects. He went to Panama, with Goshals and for four years directed the digging of the canal on the Atlantic side of the waterway.

After the great storm at Galveston it was Jadwin, then a captain, who superintended reconstruction of the seat walls, jetties and fortifications. During the world war he organized and took to France the 15th engineers and became directing head of the great construction force of 160,000 officers and men—the force that constructed more than 1,000 miles of railroad, thousands of buildings and countless miles of highways in record time.

And it is the Jadwin plan that will be followed in the government's effort to curb the mighty Mississippi river.

Waterways have been General Jadwin's hobby during the most of his military career.

Shortly after graduation from West Point in 1890 he was assigned to his first harbor improvement project. He was told to triple the size of Ellis island for immigration purposes.

He started to work and within a short while completed the job. He dredged a channel to the island, built a crib around three sides of it, filled the interior and created an island three times its original size. He so impressed his superiors that he was sent to the engineering school at Willeits point, at New York harbor, where he was graduated in both civil and military engineering.

General Jadwin has a deep rooted and sincere faith in his profession. In 1897 he was on an inspection tour of the flood ravaged Mississippi valley. The water was still high. A resident approached him and asked if he thought the army engineers could solve the problem of the mighty Mississippi.

He replied in five words: "They built the Panama canal."

And it was with this sort of determination that he plunged into trying to find a solution to what has been described as the world's greatest engineering problem.

JUDGE FIRES BOMB AT BAPTIST MEET

Fundamentalist Says Federal Council Disturbs Co-operative Fellowship

Denver, Colo. — (AP) — Charging that the present activity and development of the Federal Council of churches of Christ in America was jeopardizing the fellowship of co-operative unity of the Northern Baptist convention constituency, Judge F. W. Freeman of Denver, today exploded the fundamentalist bombshell which has hung over the convention since its start here.

Judge Freeman, a leader of local fundamentalists, asserted that "Baptists cannot be other than disturbed and irritated by the assumption that formal Christian union is a commendation to be sought, and the corollary to this, that Protestantism would strengthen and enlarge its contribution to the kingdom in a formal union, more effectively than through denominational channels."

Speakers and representatives of the church council have insisted upon and emphasized "church union," said Judge Freeman who further charged there had been an "assumption on the part of the federal council that it can speak for the denominations related to it on civic, social, and industrial questions." "Our conception of ecclesiastical policy, which we believe is based upon clear New Testament teaching, is such that we cannot disturb or merge the free and unembarrassed authority and autonomy of the churches by any alignment with over-arching ecclesiastical control, whether in the form of an episcopacy or presbytery or hierarchy."

Judge Freeman suggested that "we ought to give serious consideration to a restatement of the limitations and reservations inherent in our relation to that organization, the church council."

WARN BASS FISHERMEN TO AVOID REFUGES

Madison — (AP) — Although the bass season opens Thursday, the conservation commission would warn all fishermen that refuges established for the spawning season will remain effective until July 1.

They must be so maintained, the commission said, because the bass season for spawning is later than usual this year due to unfavorable spring weather; bass have the characteristic of guarding their infant fish for a short time after they hatch and will not, therefore be off the spawning beds until after July 1.

"Many fishermen think," the conservation department said, "that fishing restriction on spawning beds should be removed when the season opens, but this cannot be done this year for the reasons given."

"Establishing fish refuges this year is the first step of the commission in protecting the natural reproduction of fish," said E. O. Webster, superintendent of fisheries. "Emphasis has been laid in fisheries work in Wisconsin almost entirely upon artificial reproduction and planting and not enough effort has been made to protect the natural reproduction. It is only by a successful combination of these two efforts that best results can be obtained and Wisconsin waters restocked."

MAKES PERFECT RECORD DURING SCHOOL TERM

Attending the state graded school at Black Creek for eight years without being absent or tardy once, and never receiving a grade below 90, is the enviable mark established by Miss Ruth Leatherbury, 13. This record is believed to have been the best ever made by an Outagamie-co grade school student.

The little girl was valedictorian of her graduating class this year. She is a member of the Campfire Girls, which group she helped organize.

During all her school years she never had to be forced to go to school by her parents. She was fortunate in never contracting a serious illness while school was in session and when she was in the lower grades her father often carried her to school on his shoulders when the snow was too deep for her to travel by herself.

At one time the little girl was one of five students in the second grade, in which 35 were enrolled, which attended session following a severe snow storm.

CORONER REPORTS ON CLINIC TRAGEDY

Fixes No Blame but Says Hospital Had Been Warned of Danger

Cleveland, Ohio — (AP) — Making no attempt to fix blame but pointing out that the Cleveland clinic had been warned of faulty x-ray film storage which cost 123 lives by fire and poison gases, Coroner A. J. Pearce completed his inquest after a month of investigation in a report on file with official county records today.

The warning was sent to the clinic by the Ohio Inspection bureau of the Fire Underwriters Investigating service last April 2. The disaster occurred May 15. It called attention to the fire hazard in the type of film used at the clinic, urged use of another kind, and advised clinic officials that the film, if burned, would generate great clouds of noxious fumes.

The film was stored in the basement and was ignited by a means not determined in the investigation.

The report placed the official number of dead at 123. They were killed by a combination of nitrogen peroxide gas mixed with carbon monoxide, the coroner said.

AGED MAN STARVES RATHER THAN TO LIVE ON CHARITY

Chicago — (AP) — A physician gave the cause of John Nelson's death as starvation. Police believe it was pride.

Nelson was 70 years old. Not so long ago he lived at a home for old folks, but he ran away. He said he couldn't stand charity any longer.

He had a little money and he engaged a small room at a hotel. The room rent took all his money. There was none for food; but at least he was able to put forth the appearance of a man who did not have to live on charity.

Yesterday he stood at the window of a delicatessen. The odor of food came through the open door from the steam tables. His eyes feasted on the tempting window display. He fell in a faint and died without regaining consciousness.

Doctors said it was starvation. But police said it was pride.

Club Women Want Fresh Air School

A fresh air school for Appleton was discussed and a health committee of the Appleton Woman's club tentatively organized at a luncheon meeting of club women Tuesday noon at the club.

Believing that Appleton's lack of a fresh air school places this city far behind Green Bay, Oshkosh and Milwaukee, where these schools came into being 10 and 12 years ago, the health committee took for its project next year the sponsoring of such a school for Appleton, and will present a written discussion of the plan to the board of education at its next meeting.

Reports on the three schools at Green Bay, the four at Oshkosh, and the seven in Milwaukee were made by Mrs. Mabel Shannon, Mrs. J. L. Marshall, and Miss Mary Orblison, who visited these schools. A discussion of building and equipment also was held.

Contrary to general conception, a fresh air school is a place for undernourished and underweight children, not a sanatorium for children who already have tuberculosis. Children who are designated as "contacts," that is, boys and girls who live in a home where there is tuberculosis, are taken care of in a fresh air school, but no child who is a victim of the disease is permitted to enter and associate with reasonably healthy children. While in the school the children are kept on a rigid schedule of diet, rest and mental development, and often one year of this treatment will cure the most stubborn physical defects.

At the meeting Tuesday it was decided to hold health committee meetings the third Monday of each month, the first one to be a health rally on Sept. 15.

THE MODERN WAY TO COOK VEGETABLES

Save the Vital Elements and Improve the Flavor

Every woman who knows the importance of vegetable foods and wishes to make these healthful dishes tasteful, will welcome the work of two groups of nationally known cooking experts. These women experimented at length with vegetables cooked in the various ways. Their conclusions are of value to everyone interested in diet and health. Use little water in cooking vegetables. Do not overcook. Add a dash of sugar while the foods are cooking.

What does the dash of sugar do? It does not make the vegetables taste sweet as might be expected, but it intensifies the piquant flavors. It restores the freshness of flavor. It helps to heighten the color of the vegetables.

Try this Carrot Loaf recommended by one of the experts. Scrape enough carrots to make a pint of pulp. Boil in slightly sweetened water until tender. Then mash. To the pint of pulp, add 2 well-beaten eggs, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 1/4 teaspoon of pepper, 2 teaspoons of sugar and 1/4 cup of cream. Pour into a well-buttered mold. Stand this in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Turn out on hot platter and surround with peas and serve with white sauce.

Use a dash of sugar to make the healthful foods so appetizing that people will eat them. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

THE NEW Saint and Sinner By Anne Austin 1922 NEA SERVICE, INC.

"GEORGE, I am glad!" Crystal said quietly, stretching out both her hands, which the artist seized and held in a convulsive grip. And suddenly she knew that she was speaking the truth. She was glad, with all her heart, that George Pruitt would have his chance. And there was another emotion, too, which she did not identify just at first as relief. It flooded her heart and spilled along every nerve. Now she would not have to decide what to say to him. Lincoln Pruitt had decided for her, by accepting his son as an artist. For as she had told herself the night before, an artist would not want to burden himself with a wife. And because relief was so exquisite, her voice vibrated with unfeigned joy as she repeated, "I am glad, George! So terribly glad for you!"

Three minutes later they climbed in George's car, followed by the shouted good-byes of Nils, Cherry, Rhoda, and Ben Grayson. George, very pale again, and grimly silent, seemed scarcely to realize that Crystal sat beside him. He drove, leaning forward a little to scowl at the road as it unwound in the thickening dusk. The car was a unit in a long procession, so close-packed a throng that speed was impossible, and conversation nearly so, because of the raucous, impatient honking of hundreds of horns.

"Got to get out of this for a bit," George muttered, as if to himself, and suddenly swerved his car from the main road into a rutty country lane, the entrance to which was aggressively posted: "Private. No trespassers, under penalty of law!"

Crystal smiled faintly at his disregard of the truculent sign. Very rich young men could afford to ignore "No trespassing" signs. But as the car bumped and jolted over the frozen ruts something like panic seized her. What did George want to talk about, that such privacy was necessary? What was there to say now? Did he really think he had committed himself by merely telling her that he would have something to say to her when the picture was finished, and that honor compelled him to explain, regretfully, that under the circumstances he now had nothing to ask of her? She had not believed he could be so stupid, so insensitive....

"Mind if I park here for a few minutes?" he asked, still in that odd, brusque voice, when the car had penetrated several hundred feet into the lane. "You aren't cold, are you? There's another laprobe somewhere—"

"No, I'm not cold," Crystal answered steadily.

"I didn't tell you all that Dad said when I showed him the picture," George began abruptly, when he had killed the engine, and the brooding quiet of the country night had swooped down upon them.

George cleared his throat, and she saw that his hands were gripping the steering wheel so hard that the knuckles shone white. "He looked at the picture for a long time, Crystal, and then he said: 'You win, boy. It's the real thing, at last. But I've a hunch you didn't paint the picture all by yourself, so I guess if I'm going to gamble on your success as an artist you'd better marry the model.'

NEXT: A proposal of marriage.

ROHAN TO AMEND U. W. APPROPRIATION BILL

Madison —(P)— When the University of Wisconsin appropriation bill comes before the Assembly later this week for engrossment Assemblyman John Rohan, Kaukauna, former page in the house of which he is now a member, and himself a student at the state school, will present an amendment to that portion of the bill which is understood to compel a virtual doubling of tuition fees.

The Rohan amendment would make the regents of the university take the responsibility for raising tuition fees if they wish to increase the school's income for the coming biennium.

Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University is quoted here as having told the legislature's joint finance committee he considered it a legislative function to increase fees.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites were a small group of men. He said, "I'll tell you if I can just why I left your cornfield. I was tired of staying there. So I got up and walked away. You see, I thought I needed play. I got real tired of hanging up out in the open air."

"Oh, please don't take me back. I fear 'twould make me shed a great big tear. I've found some little friends and I just hate to leave them now. We've planned to run, and roam around to see what new things can be found." The scarecrow eyed the farmer, as a frown spread on his brow.

The farmer stood and scratched his head, and then he very calmly said: "Well, say, you are these new-found friends? I'd like to meet them all. I think that you are fooling me and so these friends I'll have to see. If they are near at hand I think they'll do as you call."

The scarecrow smiled and said: "All right! I'll call to them with all my might." And then he shouted, "Hey, there, bunch, come out here if you please. I need your help to keep me free. I'm just as worried as can be." And then the Tynmites rushed out from behind a great big tree.

ried as can be." And then the Tynmites rushed out from behind a great big tree.

In just a moment Scouty said, "Well, here we are. Now go ahead and introduce us to your friend, the kindly farmer man." The introduction then took place. A smile spread on the farmer's face. "To make you glad," the farmer said, "I'll do whatever I can."

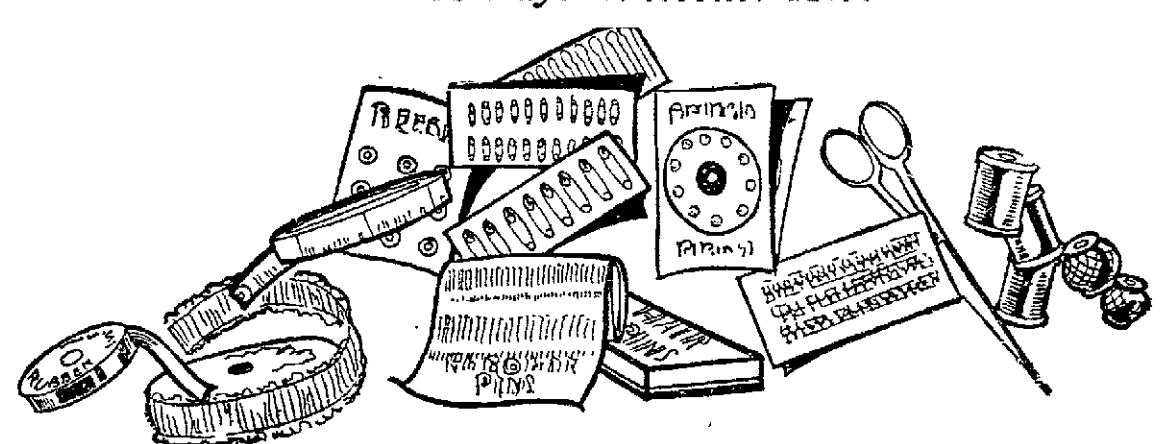

"Then let the scarecrow play with us. It's our fault that he left his post to seek out funny lands." "All right," the farmer quickly said. "If you want fun, just go ahead." And then he grabbed the scarecrow and real heartily shook hands.

INVESTORS WILL SOON TURN EYES TO FOREIGN BONDS

Action Will Follow Abatement of Stock Market Frenzy, Says Writer

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1929 by Cons. Press

New York—In the last article in this series attention was called to the conclusion reached by the Foreign Securities Committee of the Investment Bankers Association to the effect that the intrinsic value of the securities of most foreign countries which have borrowed in the United States since the Armistice is higher today than it ever was before while at the same time the price of the same securities is lower than it was a year ago.

In support of this statement we have the settlement of the reparations problem, which theoretically ought to improve the status not only of French and other allied obligations but of German descriptions. When the market finally reflects this improvement it will probably be greater in the bonds of foreign corporations than in those of foreign governments, although both ought to be helped.

But it is not only in Europe that events have worked to the benefit of foreign securities. In South America the accord reached by Chile and Peru over the Tacna-Arica dispute removes a standing danger of trouble between these two great South American countries. The success that attended the efforts to persuade Bolivia and Paraguay to submit their boundary troubles to arbitration is another sign of the growing stability of the nations concerned.

In the Far East the financial situation in Japan or rather the delay in restoring the gold standard is disconcerting but the progress toward pacification in China is a favorable development. There never was any doubt about the status of Australian securities and such market depreciation as has taken place in them has been due to the high level of money and nothing else.

For a long time American investors were timid about putting their money into foreign bonds. They are gradually overcoming this complex, to use a popular term, and meanwhile they are being rewarded by a higher return on their savings than they could get anywhere else with equal safety. When and if the stock market frenzy abates there will be a turning to this foreign field on the part of investors which will surely enhance the average price.

KOHLER VETOES BILL ON JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT

Madison—(AP)—In two statements issued from his office, Governor Kohler today urged a good Wisconsin representation at the annual meeting of the national conference of Social Work, San Francisco, June 26 to July 3, and announced the veto of a bill.

The bill, from the senate, would have allowed the governor to appoint a temporary circuit judge to replace one who was ill for six months. The attorney general held the bill is unconstitutional and the governor advised the senate he would not, therefore, approve it.

23 COUNTY YOUTHS SIGN FOR C. M. T. C.

Ninety-five per cent of the state quota has been filled, it was reported.

POOR ROAD AHEAD FOR TARIFF BILL

rather than politics as it is borne in on the chief executive. There are certain industries that feel entitled to protection and to Mr. Hoover's support of their requests for increased duties. The president has in his speeches promised them aid. If the senate however ultimately rules out all except the farm schedules, then the White House is powerless to initiate any other policy for the time being.

What may happen, of course, is that some compromise may be presented to the senate but it will require Democratic votes to bring it about. Mr. Hoover may have to develop his own makeshift majority and the tariff has always provided the best opportunity for an appeal to sectionalism rather than party ties. Other presidents have won support from opposite parties on the same basis.

DELAY IS DEFEAT

The tariff movement nevertheless has sustained a defeat—it has been postponed. The summer recess is of course a climatic affair, but the senate finance committee will make use of the time to try to develop a new piece of legislation. Meanwhile the Democrats will attempt to rally their lines for a new attack.

Efforts may be made to tie the farm debenture plan into the bill in such a way that it may make the whole measure distasteful to administration Republicans and thus weaken the chances for any tariff revision.

Delay has set in and will continue till the autumn when more delay may be expected. If the inside thoughts of the leaders could be revealed, it probably would be found that they never really wanted tariff revision, and would not be disappointed if it fell by the wayside, but the responsibility for making or breaking a tariff bill is not easily avoided.

Rather than have the bill that passed the house, it is not improbable that Mr. Hoover would prefer no tariff revision at all, but he too cannot publicly sidetrack a measure which he originally asked the special session of congress to consider.

The legislative and executive branches of the government have found the tariff a troublesome question in foreign relations, a vexing problem in domestic politics and a serious economic dilemma, so that it may be inferred a final tariff bill is a long ways off.

Air Aces Dedicate Airport

It isn't difficult to identify either one of the subjects in this picture, for both have been in the news many times. The lady with the flowers is Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to span the Atlantic. With her is Major Reed Landis, World war ace and son of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner. They were snapped while attending dedication of a new airport at Anderson Ind.

SEE REVENGE MOTIVE IN DRUGGIST MURDER

Chicago—(AP)—Leon Raymond, 36, was shot and killed last night in his drug store in Oak Park—a victim, police believe, of revenge. His body was found behind a counter by his wife, who had heard the shots in their living quarters above. Two revenge theories were based on Raymond's past experience with robbers and one had to do with "Wee Willie" Dooey, notorious gunman and alleged mail robber.

Last April 30, police recalled, Raymond was held up by two men, one of whom he identified by pictures as Dooey, already sought for the wounding of a postal inspector several weeks ago and for the slaying last month of Chief of Police Charles Levy of Berwyn might have sought to silence the druggist with bullets, police reasoned.

The other revenge theory was centered upon two men recently were released from the penitentiary after serving a term for robbing Raymond 15 months ago in another store he owned. They are being sought.

Police discounted the theory that Raymond was killed while refusing a robbery, since neither the cash register nor the safe had been disturbed.

CHURCH LOYALTY BODY SEES HOOVER

Presbyterian Commission Pledges to Support Law Enforcement Program

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover was assured today of the support of the Presbyterian church for his law enforcement and enforcement program.

This assurance was expressed by Dr. Cleland M. Adee of Chicago, moderator of the Presbyterian General assembly, spokesman for its new national loyalty commission, which had an audience with the president today.

Reverend Mr. Hoover's pronouncements on the subject the statement prepared by Dr. Adee to present the commission's view made clear that it would be represented the church's membership number more than two million and whose treasury is more than five million.

"We know of no division of sentiment in the church regarding your words of warning and challenge," it said.

While not concerned with the making of a driving of laws nor chiefly with law enforcement it continued its observance of law, the spirit of the spirit of lawfulness was its only task.

"If any agency may feel responsibility in developing a spirit which finds in law a binding obligation, it said, so be it the church."

Expressing a feeling that recent months have witnessed seriously by maintaining it upon a law and that many public journals and officials have helped to enforce it, the statement told that "no law is here involved because it is law itself which is involved."

COUNCIL ACCEPTS DEED FOR PARK ON WINNEBAGO'S SHORE

Tract Along Lake Is Presented to City by Mrs. Helen K. Stuart

Neenah—The deed to Kimberly Point park, a tract of land on the lakeshore included in all of lots 7 and 8 of block C and lots 7 and 8 of block D, Lakeview addition, presented to the city by Mrs. Helen K. Stuart as a permanent park, was accepted Tuesday evening by the city council at its bi-monthly meeting. The deed specifically stated that the land should be used solely for park purposes for the people of Neenah and the public in general and that the road known as Lake Shore Drive, connecting Wisconsin-ave. and N. Park-ave., which passes through the lots donated by Mrs. Stuart, should remain open to the public. It also will be added to the Neenah park system and taken care of in the same manner as the other parks owned and operated by the city. Following the passage of an ordinance accepting the deed and its provisions, Mayor Sande thanked Mrs. Stuart in behalf of the council and the city and gave assurance that the provisions of the deed would be strictly carried out. Mrs. Stuart thanked the mayor for his promise and the city for accepting the land which she pointed out as practically the last piece of lakeshore property which could be dedicated to the people as a free park.

Five applications were made for selling non-intoxicating liquors in places other than soft drink parlors. Applications were received from W. F. Schmidt, Louis Koffarous, Henry Steffens, L. Loehning and Edward Martins. After a recess, during which the applicants were discussed by the committee on police and health, it was alleged that three of the applicants had broken faith with the city during the last year by securing class B licenses which did not permit sale of beer. This caused quite a sensation as the majority of the council was opposed to discrimination.

APPROVE LICENSE ORDINANCE

A new ordinance regulating the manufacture and sale of non-intoxicating liquors was introduced providing that the fee be placed at $50 instead of $100, as was decided at the last meeting. Attorney George Kelly explained that under a new law, the city is powerless to license a soft drink parlor and also that the maximum license fee for other parlors is $50. All licenses must be taken out by July 1 for one year. The applicant must be a resident of the United States and of the city of Neenah, and no license will be given to anyone who has been convicted of a crime connected with the sale of liquor, the ordinance, which was approved, provides.

The city fathers again will compete in horseshoe pitching as part of the playground program, starting Thursday evening at Columbian park. Coach George Christoph, in charge of the playgrounds, presented the schedule of pairings to the council for the first round. Coach Christoph and Leonard Bradke, supervisor and caretaker at the municipal bath house, were given police power by Mayor Sande.

A communication from the board of education explained that the seventh and eighth grades of Roosevelt school would not be removed to Kimberly high school at the beginning of next fall's school year as was reported, but would remain where it is. Alderman Herziger voiced the thanks of the third and fifth ward parents for this action.

The council decided not to issue a license to the Wisconsin Power and Light company to operate busses between this city and Oshkosh until some kind of service to Oak Hill cemetery can be shown by the operating company.

Alderman Martin started fireworks when he presented motion to have the city clerk's assistant become a citizen of Neenah, claiming he had fathers ask for the position for their daughters as being city residents. The motion was not seconded. Mayor Sande explained the situation which has arisen within the last few days when the city treasurer presented his resignation. Mrs. Lillian Reese, resident of town of Neenah, has been in the clerk's and treasurer's office for several years. At the resignation of Mr. Lambert, the state tax commission suggested that the mayor appoint Mrs. Reese temporarily to the office, or until a time when the mayor shall appoint a treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Lambert. Alderman Martin still held that she should be a resident of the city and not of the country to hold the job. Attorney Kelly held that there were no provisions for a clerk's assistant, but the qualifications to a treasurer called for a city resident. Under the circumstances and until the mayor makes his appointments, there could be no harm so long as the official is able to fill the vacancy, he said.

Several resolutions assessing benefits and damages to properties abutting the proposed sanitary sewer system and the pavement of Canal-st. between Church and N. Commercial-sts. were presented and passed. The bid of Joseph Schneider for $3,602.84 for paving Canal-st. was accepted as the lowest submitted to the board of public works.

The city is not satisfied with the manner in which the Wisconsin Power and Light company has repaired the streets where it has removed its abandoned tracks. The company will be notified to do a better job. The chief engineer, the department and one man on the department will be permitted to attend the firm's school to be conducted June 26 to 28, at Madison by the Wisconsin. Extensions on division.

HOPE TO FINISH BRIDGE IN AUGUST

Structure Should Be Completed in Two Months, Says Engineer

Menasha—W. H. Guenther, state bridge engineer in charge of construction of Tayco-st. bridge, told the Kiwanis club at its luncheon Tuesday noon that with the progress now being made he believes the structure will be completed by the middle of August. The bushings, which were not according to specifications, were returned to the manufacturers for replacement, have arrived and it is expected there will be no further delays, he said. Steel erection, according to the engineer, is going right ahead and will be in place in another four weeks. The concrete work of the operator's tower is completed and the broken Ashler design stone, of which the upper part will be composed, will be put at once. This will be similar to that in the office building of the Neenah Paper company, the speaker said. The terra cotta decorations for the tile roof have arrived. The masons to lay the stone are expected to arrive Thursday. There will be four towers, one on each corner of the bridge. While the interior will differ the exterior of each will be similar.

The speaker explained the design of the bridge and said that up to date 2,400 yards of concrete had been poured, 3,200 yards of steel rock had been removed, and 340 tons of steel erected.

The Edgewater Park plat of Laabs & Shepherd of Appleton, located in the Second ward of Menasha and containing 25 lots, was accepted. The plat is located on the west side of Tayco-st. Petitions for sidewalks and for oiling Prospect-st. were referred to the street committee. George Resch was appointed a special policeman during carnival week on the commendation of the fire and police commission. A communication from Emma Pahl relative to being unable to pay her taxes was referred to the poor committee.

GIVE CITIZENS HEARING

Thomas Walburn and August Rhode, residents of Tayco-st., appeared before the council relative to the improvement of their street with crushed rock. They were given the floor for 15 minutes and upon recommendation of the aldermen they agreed to do all they could in interesting other property owners of the street in a concrete pavement, the aldermen promising to make the burden as light as possible by extending the payments over a period of years. They were shown the fallacy of using any more cinders or crushed rock on the thoroughfare. Charles Dorn, Sixth-st., was given a hearing before the council relative to payment of a sewer bill.

An ordinance regulating the sale of non-intoxicating liquors for the coming year was referred by the mayor to the committee of the whole to revise at an adjourned meeting to be held next Monday night. Mayor W. H. G. Ziemel was appointed a member of the board of review by Mayor Held and the appointment was confirmed by the council. The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare a zoning ordinance and submit it to the council. A resolution was adopted providing for reducing the width of the remainder of the sidewalk on the north side of Main-st. A resolution was adopted making "Menasha, the Industrial City," the official slogan.

Mayor Held appointed a committee consisting of Aldermen A. M. Meyer, Paul J. Kelly and T. E. McGillan to interview property owners relative to an alley on the north side of Main-st. J. H. Kuester, superintendent of water and light distribution, was instructed to attend the annual convention of the American Waterworks association at Toronto at the expense of the city.

The matter was closed by the street committee which was appointed by Mayor Held being given full power to act in the premises. They will meet at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of opening the building and placing some in charge. Mayor Held agreed to look after the installation of a telephone and electric lights.

CHARGES DISMISSED AGAINST BALDAUF

Menasha—Martin Baldauf of Menasha has released and the charge against him dismissed after a preliminary examination on a charge of larceny as bailed in municipal court at Oshkosh Tuesday morning. Mrs. Anna Welsh, his sister, who signed the complaint, failed to press the charges.

Menasha—The standpipe of the dangerous waterworks plant is in a dangerous condition and City Engineer A. G. McElhooch was appointed to make a thorough inspection. He is recommended to the common council that it be torn down at once. Its condition is due to corrosion, and while the exterior looks as if it might last for years there is scarcely anything left of the interior, according to the engineer.

Immediately following the recommendation of the engineer a resolution was drawn up by the city attorney and adopted authorizing the mayor and city clerk to advertise for bids for a new standpipe of 50,000 gallons, the bids to be returnable July 5. The present standpipe has only a 100,000 gallon capacity. It answered all requirements at the time it was built 25 years ago.

Its capacity is about right for a city of 2,500. Little Chute's new standpipe has a capacity of 200,000 gallons, it was brought out by J. H. Kuester, superintendent of water and light, who was called on by Mayor Held to express his opinion. "I don't think we ought to spend one cent upon it," he said.

"A new standpipe," said Mr. Kuester, "will cost approximately $2,000. It will reduce insurance rates on property, probably not right away but later. Reliability is one of the greatest factors of a tank. The securing of additional industries also is a factor. A large tank is what this city needs. A new tank if taken care of will last 100 years."

WALK CONTRACT REPORT VETOED BY MAYOR HELD

Council Failed to Investigate Bids, Held Points Out

Menasha—Mayor Held was given his first opportunity to decide a tie vote at the meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. The vote was on the acceptance of the report of the committee of the whole, which had presented its report on the awarding of the contract for building and repairing concrete sidewalks. Two bids were submitted, one by Frank Kasel and the other by J. H. Harold. The mayor at the last council meeting referred them to the committee of the whole for investigation. The committee recommended that the lowest bid be awarded to Mr. Harold, the lowest bidder. Upon inquiry Tuesday evening the mayor learned that the recommendation was made without investigation and he cast a negative vote.

The Edgewater Park plat of Laabs & Shepherd of Appleton, located in the Second ward of Menasha and containing 25 lots, was accepted. The plat is located on the west side of Tayco-st. Petitions for sidewalks and for oiling Prospect-st. were referred to the street committee. Lyons D. A. R. Decks Grave Of Revolutionary Soldier

Lyons—(AP)—In an antiquated cemetery whose graves are almost hidden by tall grass, the grave of Thomas Lyons, a boy soldier of the revolution, was marked here by the Elkhorn chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday afternoon. A small plate atop a bronze rod designated the grave that has been unmarked since 1847. Participating in the ceremony were about 200 people, fully half of whom were descendants of Thomas Lyons. Six children, great-great-grandchildren of the soldier, laid bunches of flowers on the newly moved strip of ground that marked the grave. Jean Adkins and Jean Ridgway, both of Elkhorn, in military caps and capes, opened the ceremony with a bugle call. Then followed the ritual of the graves.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH CLAIMS 3RD CHILD

Parents Are Held for Examination—Poison Found in Two Bodies

Chicago—(AP)—Death by poison or disease—doctors have not determined which—took a third member of the family of five children who were stricken Monday night. Lorraine Markowski, 3, was the latest victim. Her half brother, Chester Kwiatkowski, 9, died soon after he was taken to the hospital, and a sister, Kwiatkowski, 8, his sister, died yesterday.

The other children, Richard and Doris Markowski, 6 years and 17 months old, respectively, were still in a critical condition. Meanwhile, the children's mother, Mrs. Verna Markowski and her husband, Edwin, showed symptoms of the same ailment. They were placed under medical care in the psychopathic hospital, where they had been taken after being questioned by the police.

The vital organs of the first two victims were removed yesterday for chemical analysis of their contents. Physicians said the children apparently had eaten some deadly poison, but its character was not determined. Some said they believed the family was suffering from a mysterious disease.

Markowski, a paint sprayer by trade, told police that last week he had used a poisonous solution for removing paint from his hands. Preliminary examination of the first two victims' organs showed that this was the poison that caused their deaths, physicians said.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Markowski denied they were responsible for the poisoning, but each accused the other.

"She did it, my wife did it," Markowski insisted.

Mrs. Markowski, hysterical much of the time, cried: "My husband did it."

KENOSHA CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT 90

CITY SEEKS BIDS FOR NEW STANDPIPE

Structure of 500,000 Gallon Capacity Is Sought by Menasha

Menasha—The standpipe of the dangerous waterworks plant is in a dangerous condition and City Engineer A. G. McElhooch was appointed to make a thorough inspection. He is recommended to the common council that it be torn down at once. Its condition is due to corrosion, and while the exterior looks as if it might last for years there is scarcely anything left of the interior, according to the engineer.

Immediately following the recommendation of the engineer a resolution was drawn up by the city attorney and adopted authorizing the mayor and city clerk to advertise for bids for a new standpipe of 50,000 gallons, the bids to be returnable July 5. The present standpipe has only a 100,000 gallon capacity. It answered all requirements at the time it was built 25 years ago.

Its capacity is about right for a city of 2,500. Little Chute's new standpipe has a capacity of 200,000 gallons, it was brought out by J. H. Kuester, superintendent of water and light, who was called on by Mayor Held to express his opinion. "I don't think we ought to spend one cent upon it," he said.

"A new standpipe," said Mr. Kuester, "will cost approximately $2,000. It will reduce insurance rates on property, probably not right away but later. Reliability is one of the greatest factors of a tank. The securing of additional industries also is a factor. A large tank is what this city needs. A new tank if taken care of will last 100 years."

Elaborate plans are in formation for the "Rinky-Dink" circus parade to be staged on the morning of July 4 under the auspices of the Valley Council of boy scouts as a special feature of the American legion celebration, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

All youngsters in the city are to have the opportunity of showing their originality by entering the parade, and prizes are to be awarded for the best acts, floats, and other features.

It is expected youngsters will cage up their prize rabbits, dogs, and other animals to be rolled down. College boys on coaster wagons, bicycles or wheelbarrows. There will be clowns, stunt riders, and other entertaining features.

Boys who have ponies, pet horses or even cows, are requested to ride in the parade so that it will be a real, mile long circus parade. Neighborhood gangs are expected to organize clown bands and instruments probably will vary from dish pans to "kazoots."

Boy scout troops plan to organize clown troupes and bands and several troops expect to enter floats. Special committees have been appointed to make arrangements.

The following troop committees have been named by Mr. Clark: Troop 1, Martin Killgren and John Loessel; Troop 2, Walter Wright, Charles Widsten and Chester Cavert; Troop 4, Robert and Richard Graef; Troop 5, Robert O'Neill, Chris Mullen, Jr., and Norbert Leonard; Troop 8, Charles Wilkner and Sheldon Hauert; Troop 10, Robert Merrifield, Stanley Cook and Robert Meyer; and Troop 11, Clarence Hopfensperger, Edward Jensen and Marvin Greene.

RAIN-MAKING TESTS PROVE UNSUCCESSFUL
Hongkong — (AP) — Army aviators today carried out rain-making experiments above Hongkong, dropping a powdered chemical known as "deolin" on the clouds. The experiments were not successful.

Seven flights were made above the clouds and 100 pounds of deolin dropped. The chemical theoretically has a refrigerating effect on clouds, causing greater condensation and subsequent rainfall.

Hongkong is suffering from severe water famine, necessitating drastic action to replenish its supplies.

MANY SEEK RELIEF IN MUNICIPAL POOL

During the past few days when the mercury soared to scorching regions, patronage at the municipal swimming pool on W. Water-st was almost doubled as hundreds of youngsters swarmed around the gate waiting for their chance to take a plunge, according to Thomas Ryan, Jr., who is in charge.

Boys who usually constitute the majority when a count is taken, are not out-doing the girls who swim Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. There has been about an even number of boys and girls frequenting the pool within the last few days.

The water is kept as much in motion at night when adults have their turn to cool off as during the day. Hundreds of swimmers swarm from shops, offices and other places of business to the municipal tank.

DETROIT MAN TO MANAGE TUBE CO.

C. A. DUNN Elected to Director's Board to Succeed Hugh G. Corbett

C. A. Dunn, of Detroit, Mich., was elected to the board of directors of the Appleton Steel Tube company at a special meeting of the board of directors Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Dunn succeeds Hugh G. Corbett of Kenosha, who recently resigned.

The Detroit man also is to be general manager in charge of the mill here. He expects to move his family here from Detroit within two weeks. For 14 years Mr. Dunn was superintendent of the Globe Steel Tube company of Milwaukee. In Detroit he was connected with the Hutto Engineering company.

Present officers and members of the board of directors of the Appleton concern are: John Balliet, president; F. A. W. Hammond, secretary; Carl Schuetter, treasurer; Charles Hopfensperger, vice president; Charles Baldwin, A. K. Ellis and Mr. Dunn.

The local plant now employs a crew of 34 men days and five men at night. It is expected that a full night crew will be put on within the next week, because orders are piling up so fast that a larger output is necessary. At the present time the concern has enough orders ahead to keep it in operation for three months, it was reported.

MORE PLANE WRECKAGE IS FOUND IN HAWAII

Hilo, Island of Hawaii, T. H. — (AP) — Second airplane wreckage of airplane wreckage including airplane fabric, aluminum and wood, were found yesterday at Point Kaimilo, near the southern end of this island.

Examination of the four pieces found Monday at the same place indicated they probably were of army construction of some obsolete type of plane.

The parts are being held for Ezra R. Frost, brother of Jack Frost, pilot of the plane Golden Eagle, which disappeared during the Dole flight from California in August, 1927. Frost recently came here from his home at Telham Manor, N. Y., to conduct a search for traces of his brother's plane.

With the aid of army personnel and equipment, he will start an airplane search June 24 of Mauna Loa, the volcanic peak, where flares were reported seen shortly after the flight and where it was believed one of the two planes lost in the race might have landed and been wrecked.

COUNTY AGENT MUST BE "KING SOLOMON"

Thousand and One Questions Are Put to Him Every Month

A county agent has to be a regular King Solomon if he expects to answer the variety of questions put to him. Gus Fell, Outagamie county agricultural agent, showed members of Rotary club at their meeting at Hotel North on Tuesday. He told of the thousand and one questions put to a man in his position, and the list included everything from discovering new and strange hog diseases to hazing a boss on what chewed the leaves off the tomato plant, and anything from inventing a new fertilizer to killing off the cabbage maggot.

The types of service given by the county agent include the dispensing of information, personal service, and organization and educational work, such as organizing movements and educating the farm public to accept new projects like the testing of cattle.

Phases of promotion sponsored by the agricultural agent's office, include increased production, marketing, and a fuller life for farmers. The latter is taken care of through the promotion of home economics groups, boys and girls clubs, and home talent tournaments.

INVESTMENT BOARD BILL WINS VICTORY

Madison — (AP) — The move to create a state investment board to handle the teacher's retirement fund and other trust funds won a preliminary victory Tuesday when the Senate rejected, 16 to 14, a substitute amendment offered to the Eoldt bill by Sen. Walter Hunt. The Eoldt bill follows recommendations of the interim committee on trust funds and is endorsed by Gov. Kohler.

Sen. Glenn D. Roberts' bill to strengthen laws governing goods stored in cold storage has also been given preliminary approval by the Senate. A substitute amendment by Oscar Morris, Milwaukee, was rejected after Roberts said it would emasculate the present cold storage laws. Lt. Gov. Huber cast the deciding vote against the amendment.

Macks Win 13th Game In 14 Starts From Nats

BABE RUTH BACK ON BENCH BUT YANKS ONLY BREAK EVEN

Blake and Bush Hurl Cubs to 13 to 6 Victory Over Cardinals

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
P ERIHANS there ought to be a law that even if a pitcher is so good, it is difficult to believe that any more statistics on the books could protect the Senators from the Athletics. It happened again Tuesday at Washington in full view of a hardy band of capital fans—these teen victories for the Mackmen in 14 starts against Walter Johnson's men. If this is carried it may easily mean the margin in which the Athletics defeat the Yankees, presuming always that they do beat the Yankees.

The score of this latest outrage against Clark Griffith's peace of mind was 7 to 6, and the Senators threatened to the very last to pull it out. The home forces did have the satisfaction of seeing Robert M. Grove, star left hander of the American league, making an undignified exit after the second inning, but Rube Walberg was in there when the payoff took place. The customary parade of Washington pitchers marched through the box, headed by Hadley.

BABE ON BENCH
The victory netted the Athletics a gain of half a game over the Yankees, who now trail by eight full games again. The champions got no better than an even break against the Red Sox, despite the presence of Babe Ruth in the flesh—on the bench. Freddy Helmach exercised his customary spell over the Bostonians in the opener to win by 9 to 0, but Phipps, Zachary and Sherid shot the chutes in the nightcap, which Boston won by 7 to 4. Lou Gehrig got his eighteenth home run in the opener, holding his tie with Hafez of the Cardinals, who broke out with a round trip blow at Chicago. Other teams in the American league were idle.

Inspired no doubt by the brazen conduct of the Braves who brazenly took two one-run decisions from the Cardinals on Sunday, the roaring Robins hit the warpath at a most inopportune moment for the Giants. Not satisfied with winning the first game by 8 to 7, the Flatbush flock came right back in the second to win by 7 to 6 on home runs by Rube Bressler and Babe Herman in the eighth and the ninth respectively.

BENTON, VANCE ROUTED
The first game witnessed the rout of both Larry Benton and Dazzy Vance, John Morrison did a fair job of finishing for the Robins, but the Giant pitching remained indifferent. Melvin Ott hit his fifteenth homer, and Bill Terry also hit for the circuit. Bill got nine out of ten in the two games, lifting his average to .400 and himself to the league leadership.

The Giants were not the only contending team to run into trouble Tuesday. Red Lucas outpitched Irvin Brame at Cincinnati to shade Pittsburgh by 2 to 1, and the Cubs thumped the Cardinals by 13 to 6 at Chicago as Hack Wilson led the home team. This round of results left the Cardinals holding a three-point lead and their heads. The Pirates were second, three points ahead of the Cubs. Sheriff Blake pitched for the Cubs for six and one-third innings, but had to have help at the finish from Guy Bush, Haid, Bell and Holland when the St. Louis victors took the game. The Cardinals' home run party given by Hack Wilson and Hafez.

The 4 to 2 victory of the Phillies over the Braves was notable chiefly for the seventeenth home run of Charles Klein, the slugging outfielder of the Philadelphia team. Lester Sweetland pitched smart ball against Ben Cantwell and Leverett.

FATOR SUSPENDED FOR POOR SHOWING

Ranking Jockey Cannot Wear Silks Again Until Exonerated

New York.—(AP)—Laverne Fator, generally considered the best of present day American jockeys, has received the first suspension of his riding career. Fator was set down for the rest of the Aqueduct meeting Tuesday for a bad ride on Folking, odds-on favorite in the second race, which finished far from the money. Fator's case, in addition, was submitted to the Jockey Club for further action. This means the great jockey will not be able to don silks unless the Jockey Club exonerates him. As the barrier went up for the second race, Folking was caught in a jam and Fator took him up until the colt tripped the field. Then Fator turned him loose and Folking began to move up. As he turned into the stretch Fator swung him wide and so much valuable ground was lost that the colt couldn't overtake the leaders. Fator is contract rider for the Rancocas stable of Harry F. Sinclair.

New York.—Al Brown, Panama, outpooled Vidal Gregorio, Spain, (15); Kid Chocolate, Cuba, stopped Teddy Roth, New York, (3); Tony Vaccarello, New York, outpooled Pete Meyers, San Francisco, (10).

Pitcher Calls the Piggies

KANSAS CITY — Just what is an umpire supposed to do to maintain his dignity and poise when a pitcher is in there bellowing "So-o-o-oey" every time he calls a close one a ball?

Whatever, it is, umpires and players alike protested recently the hog-calling of Pitcher Pea Ridge Day—that's his name, Pea Ridge Day—of the Kansas City Blues.

It seems that Pea Ridge led go his whoops whenever the "mo" struck him, and it struck him often. Batters said it unnerved them. Umpires protested to President T. J. Hickey of the American Association that these ungodly whoops got everybody's goat.

President Hickey finally asked Pea Ridge to refrain from summoning the swine while he was pitching. Day now confines his hog-calling to times when he is on the bench during a game or, when pitching, to celebrate when the last man is out in the ninth.

Pea Ridge almost went to the National League this year. The Cubs sent him several contracts, but he returned them all, asking for more money. He got his name from his home town, Pea Ridge, Ark.

However, eastern fans are not yet ready to concede the championship to the west coast again. They are banking on young Rich Glendon's Columbia eight or Jim Wray's powerful Cornell boatload to uphold eastern prestige. Most observers content themselves with the opinion that the race again will be a duel between California and Columbia.

Although beaten by Yale during the spring season, Cornell is being given more than an outside chance to lead the field of nine across the finish line. There is no doubting that Wray has a better eighth this season than any in recent Cornell rowing history.

Tuesday's stifling heat again held the day's workouts to a minimum. Columbia, out early, raced against time for a mile and made a fine showing. Syracuse wound up a long pull upstream with a racing finish and Cornell covered six miles over the course to the big red boat-house. Pennsylvania's took only a light paddle in the early evening.

"Old Dick" Glendon, the Navy mentor, seems to have hit upon a varsity combination that, satisfied him. His shift of Monday probably will be permanent. Mike Murphy still is engaged in experimentation with the Wisconsin varsity and has not yet found the answer to all his troubles.

HOLD OUTBOARD RACES AT OSHKOSH, JULY 28

Oshkosh — The Oshkosh Outboard Motor club is anticipating one of the best outboard motor races in the state when boats gather here July 28 for one of the ten races scheduled this year in Wisconsin.

The Oshkosh club members will make this race the biggest of the entire racing season, they hope, as this city is blessed with the best facilities for racing in the northwest and the race drivers from several states know it.

Plans for the race will be completed when members gather at the Oshkosh Power Boat club Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock at a fish fry.

Dr. John E. Rogers of this city, who is chairman of the state racing committee, will be in attendance. Dr. Rogers is also commodore of the Power Boat club.

WINNER OVER BEARS PICKED AS VICTOR AT 'KEEPSIE REGATTA

California Crew Looks as Good as Last Year's Boat; Murphy Still Experiments

Poughkeepsie, N. Y. — (AP)—Advance calculations on the Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta here next Monday have it that the winner of the four mile grind will be the eight that backs California.

The Golden Bears, winners of the championship last season and Olympic title-holders as well, have impressed all observers during their workout here. A fine time trial has led the experts to believe that Coach Kay Ebricht has just as good a crew this year as he had last when the Californians broke the 27-year-old record for the Poughkeepsie course.

KIMBERLY JUNIORS LOSE TO APPLETON LEGION TEAM, 16-2

Emmett Mortell Gives Villagers Six Hits and Whiffs 12 Batsmen

Emmett Mortell gave Kimberly American legion junior baseballers six hits Tuesday afternoon out at Brandt park and struck out 12 of the invaders which probably accounts for the fact the villagers lost the contest. Mortell's mates in the meantime were hitting the ball far and wide and when things had settled down and the boys dashed home ahead of the storm, the score was 16 and 2 in favor of Appleton.

Kimberly counted first getting two runs off three hits in the first half the third inning. Schuler and DeLessa doing the scoring. The Appleton entry then staged a comeback and got back the two runs to tie the score.

In the fourth inning they went out and counted three more times, repeated the performance in the sixth and had a big seventh which resulted in five more runs. They also counted three times in the ninth inning.

The club will meet Seymour at Brandt park. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

REIGH COUNT READY FOR ROYAL ASCOT RACE

Ascot, Eng. — (AP)—Mid royalty and pageantry America's Reigh Count Thursday seeks a fitting climax to a sensational racing career as he battles England's prince of the turf in the Gold Cup at Royal Ascot.

Win or lose, Mrs. John D. Hertz plans to return her great four-year-old colt to the United States for the completion of his racing career, a career that had its beginning two years ago as a juvenile and reached its peak on the American continent with the winning of the 1928 three-year-old championship.

In striving to win the race for which he has been pointed since winning the Kentucky Derby last season, Reigh Count endeavors to emulate the performance of James R. Keene's Foxhall, the only American horse that ever carried off the honors in the long history of the Reigh Count.

Reigh Count's Foxhall turned the trick in 1882, 74 years after the race was inaugurated in 1808.

Manager Kotla was pretty much dissatisfied about Sunday's race against the Pails and he still is looking for a hurler. The main trouble, however, is that every tosser who can sneak anything by an opposing batter has been signed up by other clubs. However, Eddie has a line on one chap and if he can inveigle the fellow into pitching up here for a couple of weeks things might not be so bad after all.

The rest of the squad probably will be okay when Sunday rolls around. Cully Schultz still is carrying a big bump on his head and feeling woozy but ought to be around by the Sabbath.

CUB PITCHER ON BASE FOUR TIMES TUESDAY

Chicago.—(AP)—Sheriff Fred Blake, Cub right hander has a good alibi for not having been able to finish Tuesday's 12 to 6 victory over the Cardinals. During his stay in the game he spent a lot of energy running bases, due to two hits, life at first on an error and fielder's choice. He scored two runs. Guy Bush finished, but Blake received credit for victory, his first in eight starts.

Chicago.—(AP)—After battling for nearly a month to overtake the Kansas City Blues, Minneapolis Wednesday was out in front in the American association without having gone through the motions of play baseball Tuesday.

While rain kept the Millers idle at Louisville, Casey Stengel's Toledo Mud Hens administered Kansas City a 12 to 8 beating, dropping the Blues to second place, one-half game behind Minneapolis. Bud Parmelee, the Hens' youthful right hander, contributed heavily to his team's triumph, pitch excellent ball and hitting a homer with a man on.

Indianapolis' initial attempt to use the present series for the purpose of taking up ground on St. Paul, was a failure. The Saints squeezed out a 4 to 3 victory over the Indians, behind fine pitching by Betts and Shealy who held the losers to five hits. St. Paul found Bill Burwell for eight shutouts. A freak homer by Monahan accounted for two of the Indian runs, the ball rolling through a crack in the scoreboard.

Minneapolis and Columbus traded places in the standings when the Brewers beat the Senators, 4-1. Ross Ryan held Columbus to five hits.

Mamaroneck, N. Y. — (AP)—The west coast of the Winged Foot golf club where the open championship of the United States will be decided next week is affectionately described by club members as a "he man's course."

The "he man" in question "m u s t" have been a giant. No man of light tonnage was the man for this rugged layout stretching yard upon yard through the forests of Westchester. Given final grooming for the blue ribbon event of golf the course will measure more than 7,000 yards.

In its normal alignment it boasts of 6,697 yards, with the tape measure stretched from the front of the big trees to the front of the greens.

FORDS PLOTTING TO SCORE ON POCAN AT KIMBERLY SUNDAY

Hope to Break String of 49 Consecutive Scoreless Innings

AUGUST BRANDT'S Ford's are going over to Kimberly to pitch the record Sunday. But at the expense of Appleton, if the locals have anything to say about it.

The last time Pocan was scored on was in the eighth inning of the Appleton-Kimberly game out at Brandt park. In that particular instance Daze Crowe hit the ball out over the railway tracks.

"Poke" saidon has been a puzzle to the Appleton squad and the boys are serving public notice on him they intend to count at least once or twice Sunday. The Fords have discovered what Poke intends to throw through long association with him, and he'll have to use all the speed he possesses to sneak his shoots past a batter.

Manager Kotla was pretty much dissatisfied about Sunday's race against the Pails and he still is looking for a hurler. The main trouble, however, is that every tosser who can sneak anything by an opposing batter has been signed up by other clubs. However, Eddie has a line on one chap and if he can inveigle the fellow into pitching up here for a couple of weeks things might not be so bad after all.

PLAYGROUND BALL LOOP TO BE FORMED

Meeting to Complete Organization Will Be Held at Y. M. C. A. Friday

Organization of another softball league in the city to be known as the Playground league will be completed at a meeting of team managers at 7:30 Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. according to A. C. Denney, director of summer playgrounds. The teams in the league will be composed of senior boys.

The new loop will be open to teams composed of senior boys regardless whether they are members of other squads. Plans now are to arrange a schedule for Wednesday and Friday evenings, the games to start at 6:15.

All groups wishing to enter teams in the new league should organize and send team managers or other representatives to Friday's meeting, Director Denney said.

ONE OF RAZZ' "FINDS" GOING TO ENGLAND

Milwaukee — Joe Uihlein, who has just returned from New Haven, Conn., where he is a student of Yale, will compete in the international track and field meet to be held at Cambridge, England, on July 13, between Yale and Harvard on one side, and Oxford and Cambridge on the other.

Joe is a former weight star of the Milwaukee Country Day school, and is now a freshman at Yale. He won the right to represent his school in the shot-put event with a heave of 43 feet and 11 1/4 inches, against varsity competition. He was the only freshman to win a place on the team.

The Yale-Harvard aggregation will sail for England on or about June 24, to give the athletes plenty of time to get into condition for the event.

Uihlein is one of Coach Clarence H. Rasmussen's proteges when Razz was Milwaukee Country Day mentor. The Milwaukee youth also is a football star.

CUISINIER NAMED BACKFIELD COACH FOR U. W. GRIDDERS

Jack MacAuliffe, Formerly of Beloit, Also May Be Signed

MADISON.—Wisconsin's football coaching staff has been revamped for next fall's campaign, pending approval of the athletic council, the most marked change being made in the backfield department. Guy Sundt, whose efforts have been centered upon the backs and punters, will have complete charge of the Fresh squad. Frank "Bo" Cuisinier, Badger quarterback last year, will replace Sundt on the varsity staff.

Glenn Thistlethwaite now has as his chief aid, "Stub" Allison, who recently replaced Tom Lieb as line coach. Campbell Dickinson assumes Allison's post as end coach, and Cuisinier steps into the picture to assist Thistlethwaite with the backfield. Irwin Uteritz continues as head coach of the "B" team, with Rube Wagner, Wisconsin's 1928 grid captain, tutoring the reserve line-men.

Sundt will have several part-time men to work with him in training the yearlings. None of these appointments have been announced. However, Coach Thistlethwaite has been seeking a former Beloit athlete, Jack MacAuliffe, who expects to enroll in the medical school at Wisconsin. MacAuliffe, if signed, will coach the freshmen backs.

In commenting on Sundt's new position, Mr. Thistlethwaite stated that he viewed the change as a fine promotion for the former Wisconsin fullback. "It is extremely important that the new men receive the proper instruction," he said. "With Sundt in charge we are assured that the freshmen will come over to the varsity well grounded in the fundamentals and principals of our style of play. Sundt also has the personality to handle these new men, and will be a great asset from this standpoint."

Cuisinier one of the country's leading quarterbacks last season, has been released from his contract signed last month at the Edgewood Academy of this city. "Bo" was to have coached all sports there next year. Coach Thistlethwaite feels that his former field general is one of the rare type who is qualified to coach a group of men with whom he has played the previous year.

FARMER LIMES HIS FIELDS AND GROWS SPLENDID ALFALFA

Ordinary Care Results in Good Crops, Says O. P. Cuff

BY W. F. WINSEY

Hortonville—"Since this field was taken over from the government, its total production up to this year did not equal the crop of alfalfa you see on it now," declared O. P. Cuff to a field of blow sand, the poorest field on his farm, on which a two and one-half ton per acre crop of alfalfa is almost fit for cutting.

Nearly every field on Mr. Cuff's large farm is covered with a better crop of pure alfalfa, or a mixture of alfalfa and red clover than the crop in the blow sand field, as one might expect. In each of his fields the crop is so tall, thick and heavy that it is difficult to walk through the fields. In one of his fields in which he had grown corn two years ago and in which water sometimes stands, the effect of the use of commercial fertilizer on the corn can be seen in rows of alfalfa much taller and thicker than the rest. It is not a question of how to raise alfalfa with Mr. Cuff but how to harvest and store all he raises.

Sowing the seed of alfalfa adapted to Wisconsin climate in a well worked seed bed that has been well limed and coated with barnyard manure gives Mr. Cuff a satisfactory crop of alfalfa each year and big crops of corn and small grain after he plows an alfalfa field. He can see the effect of an application of lime several years after it was made. If he did not use the lime and manure on his fields, it would be impossible for him to raise alfalfa, and his crops of corn and small grain would be much lighter.

Through the application of a heavy coat of lime on one of his fields that up to the time had been yielding very well, G. A. Cuff, route 2, has been cutting satisfactory crops of alfalfa, corn and grain since the application of lime was made several years ago. One year alfalfa sod in this field produced a big crop of potatoes. This year, the field is showing a fine stand of barley and alfalfa.

BELIEVES IN LIMING

In another field, limed seven years ago, G. A. Cuff has a bumper crop of alfalfa this year. He is quite positive that liming the soil, and a good coat of manure will fit it for a stand of alfalfa or clover to pass through a Wisconsin winter without injury. He is positive that liming the soil, a coat of manure, and the nitrogen stored in alfalfa roots, produce big crops of corn, grain and potatoes. From the experience of a lifetime, he is positive about the effect of manure if spread on the fields at the right time in good condition, and he is equally positive about the lasting effect of liming the soil on alfalfa, clovers and other crops from the experience of seven years.

In 1922, each one of twelve farmers in the vicinity of the Cuff farms, limed one or more fields as an experiment and checked up the effect of the liming on alfalfa, clovers and other crops. These men did not make much noise about their experiment, but they were perhaps the pioneers of Outagamie county in liming fields and in the discovery of the value of lime to farm production.

A man by the name of George Richards, who knew that the soil of the farms had given up the greater part of its original supply of lime to crops growing year after year, who wished to start crushing limestone on the county line road two miles south was short of funds for the purchase of the equipment, assured twelve farmers in the town of Hortonville, that a coat of limestone on the fields would increase yields and make the raising of alfalfa possible. He induced the twelve farmers to subscribe $100 each to the purchase of a limestone crusher. The twelve farmers made the contributions of $100 each, and a number of others contributed $50 each. Mr. Richards, by the way of inducement, promised all the contributors that he would furnish ground limestone for their fields at the rate of $2.00 per ton at the quarry. The proposition of Richards, seven years ago, and the tests made on the farms, make the farmers of the town of Hortonville pioneers in the use of lime on the soil.

STRAWBERRIES ARE PICKED BY FARMER

First Harvest of Season Is Completed Saturday Near New London

BY W. F. WINSEY

New London—Henry Rubsam, route 2, completed his first picking of strawberries Saturday. Although the first buds to open were frozen and growth and cold weather retarded growth, the crop in the vicinity will go a long way toward supplying everybody within a radius of 20 miles with all the high grade strawberries needed.

The plants are loaded with berries. Mr. Rubsam has a hay mulch in his patch that promotes growth and keeps the berries clean. During the drought, he irrigated his patch twice, through a pipe connecting the patch with a pressure tower, and used 175 barrels of water at each application. Should the dry weather threaten his crop again he will start his pumps and open the faucets.

Blackberries are in full bloom and promise at least an average yield. Raspberries also look very promising. The recent rain have done wonders for the berry crop in this locality. Thus far the bushes and plants are free from pests and diseases.

HERE AND THERE WITH FARMERS

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shiocton—Edward Rueden, route 1, was planting two acres of potatoes on Friday with a cabbage planter and he was doing a very good job with the cabbage machine except at the end of the rows where the seed bed had not been prepared as well as the balance of the field. Mr. Rueden also expects to plant six acres of cabbage.

Shiocton—Mrs. Frank Young, route 1, has 34 goslings and 28 goose eggs still under hens. She also has 89 young ducks and 200 chicks of various breeds. Mrs. Young gives her young birds free range and says she has better success in that way than in trying to rear her poultry in confinement.

On Friday, Mr. Young, who has been raising sheep as long as he has been farming, was shearing his flock in his barn. Both sheep and lambs were protesting loudly against the ordeal to which the adult members of the flock were being subjected.

Shiocton—Frank Kraiser, route 2, planted three pounds of early and late cabbage seed. His early cabbage is in good condition and is ready for transplanting. His late cabbage plants have not done as well as his early variety but the late rains will hustle them along. All of his plants are free from pests and perfect.

Mrs. Richard Beyer, route 2, has a bed of strawberries so large and so well filled with berries that she and her son declare that the members of the family will never be able to do all the picking themselves. The earliest berries in the path are now almost fully grown and will be ready for picking this week.

Shiocton—For the first time in ten years, James Powers, route 2, has a herd of hogs on his farm and finds that pork raising hooks up very profitably with dairying. In his herd are 32 animals that are fed on sweet clover pasture and the by-products of his dairying that in a short time he has brought up to an average weight of 150 pounds.

To supply his hogs with pasture, Mr. Powers has fenced off a part of a ten field of sweet clover, the whole of which he had originally designed for his cows.

WORST OF TRADE

San Francisco—John C. Scott got an overcoat in a trade but he got the worst of the transaction. The trade happened while he was asleep. A robber called on him, took a complete outfit of his clothing and left the overcoat in its place. At police headquarters it was found that the overcoat belonged to C. H. Wilson, also a victim of the robber.

SHIOCTON FARMER PLANTS SOYBEANS FOR NEXT HAY CROP

Finds He Can't Depend on Soil to Grow Good Alfalfa Every Year

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shiocton—C. P. Oaks, manager of the Greenfield Farm, west of this village, finished planting 40 acres of soy beans Friday, and intends to use the crop as hay for the dairy cattle, sheep and hogs on the farm. After finding out by repeated trials, the soil of his farm could not be depended on year after year to produce alfalfa hay in large enough yields to meet the requirements of the farm animals, Mr. Oaks began experimenting with soybeans as a substitute for alfalfa. His success with the substitute was so outstanding that he has given up attempts at raising alfalfa and made soybeans the regular hay crop.

As thousands of acres in the vicinity are similar to those of the Greenfield Farm, the Oaks' experiments may turn these acres into one of the best dairy sections of Outagamie county. The fact that Mr. Oaks has one silo still filled with corn silage and big crops of corn and grain are the usual things on and about the Greenfield Farm, makes this section look very promising as a dairy, hog and sheep part of the county. In the past, the farmers have been compelled to feed timothy, red top or mash hay to their farm animals, and that has been their handicap. Soybeans in Mr. Oaks' hands may lead the farmers out of this difficulty.

Mr. Oaks started off in his experiments with one and one-half acres of soybeans three years ago. From that patch he harvested six loads of hay. Last year, he planted twenty acres of soybeans and harvested twenty big loads from twelve acres. He reserved eight acres of the beans to ripen, thresh, grind and use as a substitute for commercial protein feed, but as wet weather came he was unable to harvest and thresh the beans.

As a result of these experiments, Mr. Oaks planted 40 acres of soybeans which breaks the record in Outagamie county and this part of Wisconsin. Before plowing the field this spring, he gave it a heavy coat of manure. He made a good seed bed and broadcasted the beans with a seeder at the rate of two bushels to the acre. He covered the beans quite lightly. He selected the Manchua and Duncald varieties. To control weeds, he expects to harrow the beans after they are up.

To make hay, he cuts the beans with a mower the latter part of August, rakes them into windrows, turns the windrows with a side delivery rake, and loads the hay from the windrows. He expects to put a part of this season's crop of soybeans in the silo, however.

As hay for dairy cattle, Mr. Oaks considers soybeans the equal of the best alfalfa in every respect. When his cows finished last year's crop of soybean hay, they dropped from one-third to one-half in milk production. The past winter, his hogs did exceedingly well on soybean hay ground in a hammer mill on the farm and mixed with skim milk. This feed is just the thing for brood sows, says Mr. Oaks.

Any farmer who is short on hay this summer or who would like something than timothy or mash hay for his cattle, next winter would do well to consult Mr. Oaks. Soybeans ought to be planted, however, by June 15, as later planting may make them hard to cure in the fall.

FIRST CHEESE IN STATE MADE IN '37

Cooperative System of Manufacture Isn't So New After All

Marshfield—(P)—The co-operative system of cheese making in Wisconsin, viewed by dairymen the nation over as a model, is not as new as the average person would believe.

Charles L. Hill, resident of Rosendale, Fond du Lac county, has as well as an aptitude for making cheese, a penchant for historical records of early Wisconsin cheese manufacture. He has dug out the name of the first man known to have made cheese and the circumstances of the first "coop."

Charles Root, Jr., of second show, made the first cheese in the state in 1837. Not until 1855, however, when Wisconsin cheese found a market in Chicago at eight cents a pound, was any definite account of cheese making recorded.

The father of J. C. Pickett of Pickett Wis., came to Wisconsin in 1840, bringing 10 cows from Ohio. The family made cheese that year and the following year accepted milk from 10 cows owned by four neighbors for the manufacture of cheese. This is said to be the first attempt at co-operative manufacture of cheese in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin State Fair records reveal that a Burlington man received one of the first awards for cheesemaking by talking a prize for the best cheese at the fair in 1851. He was S. Thurston. In 1852, the honors for the best 100 pounds of cheese went to F. E. Eldred, Johnstown.

The first successful cheese factory was established in 1864 by Chester Hazen at Ladoga, Fond du Lac county. By 1870 the herd from which the factory drew its raw ma-

More than 77,000 Wisconsin dairy cows are now on trial. Their jury consists of the milk scales, the Babcock tester, the milk sheet, and the feed record.

Whether they are to remain to roam and graze Wisconsin's pasture sides and enjoy good feed and care, depends upon the verdicts of these jurors as they are given each month in the reports of Wisconsin's 166 Dairy Herd Improvement associations.

Included in the membership of these testing associations are 4316 Wisconsin Dairymen, who are demanding that their herds produce at a profit, or if they will not, are making room for better animals which will return satisfactorily over the cost of feed, investments and care.

There are more of these dairy courts in Wisconsin than in any other state, and more cows are being asked to make good before these stable tribunals than in any other state in the country.

On this basis only profitable milk producers are being kept. "Boarders" and "dead head passengers" are being rapidly discarded. The dairy word is coming to boycott its drones.

Dairy Herd Improvement associations are now in operation in 59 Wisconsin counties. The work is being carried on under the direction of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association, and the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

Stations for Service

In December 1913, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) built its first Service Station.

Today there are 6,577 Standard Oil Service Stations in the Middle West—6,577 tangible expressions of the Company's creed, to serve—6,577 proofs of its desire to answer motorists' needs as helpfully and efficiently as modern knowledge and skill will permit.

Service Stations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are more than selling agencies. They are stations for service—where rest rooms, water, air, road maps and other free services are provided as courteously and gladly as are purchased services.

Many improvements have been developed, contributing to the comfort and convenience of the motorist. These have been incorporated in Standard Oil Company Service Stations.

Behind these improvements is the spirit of service which always has been the unchanging, imperishable feature of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) policy, and which goes into the making of all products sold at Standard Oil Service Stations.

The most important service which this Company renders to motorists is represented in the products it provides for their cars—products new and improved to meet new and changed conditions, but never failing in performance, never varying in dependability.

Working with all the experience, knowledge, and great resources at its command—focusing the best efforts of approximately 27,000 loyal men and women on the problems of modern motorists, this Company provides petroleum products scientifically developed to meet every need of every car on the road today.

Motor oils, rich and sturdy to stand up under the strain of modern driving conditions. Auto polish to keep the car clean and well groomed. Fuels to satisfy every whim of the modern motorist.

To meet the needs of the modern high compression engine—the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed and introduced Red Crown Ethyl gasoline.

It increases speed and power, reduces gear shifting, quickens acceleration, knocks out that knock, and makes possible the brilliant motoring performance of the modern car.

peachments shall be made by the "House of Representatives." Wisconsin has no house of representatives, its Assembly being the lower house of the legislature.

Thomas M. Kearney, Sr. attorney for Judge E. B. Belden, raised that point in contending the Assembly's judiciary committee had no authority to inquiry into Belden's conduct.

While the committee did not give serious consideration to that contention, it has been deemed advisable to correct the wording of the constitution from "House of Representatives" to "Assembly."

KDKA SEEKING TO IMPROVE OUTPUT

Asks for Permission to Move Transmitter to Saxenburg, Pa.

Washington —(AP)— In an effort to improve its transmission, KDKA, Pittsburgh, has asked the federal radio commission for permission to move its transmitter from East Pittsburgh to Saxenburg, Pa.

One of the oldest and most powerful stations in the country, KDKA has had trouble in getting its programs out to comparatively nearby listeners. Listeners in the Baltimore and Washington areas have reported difficulty in getting clear, strong reception and there have been other "dead spots." It is hoped that the new location will eliminate much of the interference.

KTW, Chicago, also plans to improve its transmission service by moving from the heart of the city to four miles west of Addison, a suburb. It also requests an increase in power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts.

WAPI, the University of Alabama station, has asked for a change in frequency from 1,140 to 700 kilocycles and full time. Another Alabama station, WKBC, Birmingham, has requested a change in frequency from 1,310 to 1,340 kilocycles and an increase in power from 100 to 500 watts.

KTNT, Muscatine, Ia., asks increased power from 5,000 to 10,000 watts and increased hours of operation from daytime to full time. WQAM, Miami, has applied for a change in frequency from 1,240 to 900 kilocycles and an increase in power from 1,000 to 2,500 watts.

Use— Big-Jo Flour

For Real Baking Satisfaction

Many bakings are total failures before they ever enter the oven. And the sad part of it is that the housewife does not realize it. The cause for such failures usually lies in the flour. There is no way of determining by sight or touch whether the dough is ready for oven heat, whether the baking will prove successful.

But there is a way to safeguard against "blind baking methods," against possibility of such failures, and that is through the use of—

12 GET PERMITS FROM COUNCIL TO SELL SOFT DRINKS

City Decides to Purchase Additional Electrical Equipment

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—The city council at a short session Tuesday evening granted permits for the sale of non-intoxicating liquors to twelve dealers. Three other dealers will be notified by Chief of Police Leuck that they must secure licenses before July 5. Applications for building licenses were received from John Worm, Henry Wolfarth and Harry Webb and were referred to the board of public works.

Calcium chloride was ordered sprinkled on E. Wolf River-ave. and E. Cook-st. from Main to Mill-st. The board of public works recommended that another coat of calcium chloride be sprinkled free of charge to those property owners on Washington-st. who had protested that they had never received a sprinkling last year. Petition for street light at Main and Cook-sts. was referred to the superintendent of the light and power company.

Three bids were entered for furnishing eight tons of Pocahontas coal to be used at the city hall. John Worm's bid of $9.50 a ton, the New London Fuel company's bid of $9.35, and Charles Schuchman's bid of $8.50 a ton were entered, the latter bid securing the contract.

It was brought out at the meeting that the city will have to spend approximately $2,100 in electrical equipment. This is necessary because the Edison Wood Products company has doubled its demand for electricity. The company have decided to purchase all its power from the city. Part of this expenditure was stated by Superintendent Ray Thomas, will be returned through sale of parts of present equipment. The clerk also ordered to purchase 500 feet of 18 inch sewer pipe, which will be laid to relieve the Hamilton and Sons cannery company of their flood water.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS NEW PAVING PLANS FOR NORTH SIDE

W of Doty-st and Three Blocks of Desnoyer-st to Be Improved

Kaukauna—Plans for the paving of Doty-st and three blocks of Desnoyer-st were accepted by the town council at a meeting in the council chambers in the municipal building Tuesday evening. The plans presented at the original program presented at the last meeting in that does not include any paving on Desnoyer-st, but adds two more blocks paving on Doty-st.

A petition signed by 11 residents of the block to be paved on Desnoyer-st was presented to the council and they protested against paving that road. Alderman Otto Luedtke said the road was in good shape and that it should not be paved for another year or two.

Alderman Bernard Faust recommended that a paving program be started upon for the next five years so that it should be followed out gradually of any opposition by property owners. Alderman T. W. Linford stated that the city cannot afford to give up its paving program. He quoted figures showing that the city saved approximately $7,000 in 28 by paving some of the roads in the city which would otherwise require crushed stone.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan pointed out at the city saves money by paving so that the reason there is opposition is that the property owners do not understand the matter. He said he did not favor petitions but wanted protests made in person at the meetings. The matter could then be explained.

SARAH-ST DROPPED

Alderman E. R. Landreman proposed paving all of Doty-st and to have Sarah-st as it is. The second program, he pointed out, is as good as the first. The council decided to let the second plan and specifications will be drawn up for the next meeting to be held on Thursday, June 27.

Acting-City Engineer E. McMahon as instructed to draw a sketch of an independent sewer leading from Desnoyer-st to the Fox river and add it to the state board of health. Permission will then be given to install the pump which would be installed to eject the sewage from that street to the main sewer on Wisconsin-ave.

A resolution for granting licenses and operating soft drink parlors in the city was adopted. Citizens of the United States who have lived in this city a year previous to application are eligible for licenses to operate. The fee is $50. All applications for licenses must be to Louis Wolf, city clerk, before the next council meeting on Thursday, June 27.

Alderman Smith moved that the council cooperate with the advancement association committee to help encourage location of a proposed basket factory here. He stated that he is impressed with the possibilities of the proposition. The motion was carried. A resolution ordering sidewalk on several streets was passed. Alderman B. Roberts stated that the old city reservoir on the island is open and is dangerous to the children near there. Mayor Sullivan stated that he would instruct the utility department to have it repaired immediately.

The couple left in the afternoon on a wedding trip, after which they will make their home in this city.

The Leisure Hour club held its annual picnic at the Tourist park Tuesday afternoon. Cards were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Peter Feller and Mrs. Joseph Derfus. A picnic supper was served.

The fee is $50. All applications for licenses must be to Louis Wolf, city clerk, before the next council meeting on Thursday, June 27.

CAPITAL SOCIETY AGAIN BOTHERED BY NEGRO PROBLEM

Difficulty Will Work Itself Out, Chicago Colored Leaders Say

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

Chicago—The difficulties of Washington society in adjusting itself to the presence of the first Negro congressman since 1901, are considered inevitable among colored leaders here.

But they look for the situation to work itself out in time. And there is likely to be plenty of time since Congressman Oscar De Priest represents a district which is eighty per cent Negro. The political ascendancy of white politicians in this so-called "black belt" of Chicago is considered to have passed with the death of Congressman Martin E. Madden.

"It is time the colored race learned to stand on its own feet," Congressman De Priest tells his constituents. They are taking his advice and the city not only has sent a representative to congress, but it has several colored aldermen, a Negro judge and has a number of Negro representatives in the state government.

Social Washington first recognized the problem raised by the election of the De Priest, early last winter. It was then that Mrs. A. H. Vistol, wife of an Indiana representative, proposed that applicants for membership in the congressional women's club must be endorsed by one or more active members from the state in which the applicant resides and then must have the endorsement of the club's executive committee. This was interpreted as a move to bar the wife of the Negro congressman. Something of a furor was created over the last week and when it was reported that the De Priest in turn had snubbed the Vistals by not inviting them to a musical to which other congressmen were invited.

Mrs. Hoover's tea, which Mrs. De Priest attended, already has served as the basis for resolution by two southern legislatures.

Then there was the question of appointments to Annapolis and West Point. No Negro has attended West Point since 1880 and in its entire history the institution has graduated only three colored men. No Negro has attended Annapolis since 1880 and none ever was graduated.

Congressman De Priest nominated three candidates for Annapolis and West Point and one of them, Charles E. Wear, has passed the entrance examinations for the naval academy.

One of the nominees, Lawrence H. Whitfield, a University of Chicago graduate, declined to take the examinations because he said he feared that it would raise a question of race prejudice.

The De Priest has been a politician of importance in Chicago for years. He was the first member of his race who ever served on the county board here and the first Negro alderman.

He has twice been indicted in connection with vice and gambling syndicates. The first time he was acquitted and only this spring indictments against him were dropped when the state decided that it did not have sufficient evidence to prosecute.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

Chapter 13
THE PETERSON REVOLVER
The bullet was flung, but whether it had snuffed out a human life as MacNair suggested I had no means of knowing. "See here, Henry," I cried suddenly, "have you had Jerry's clothing checked over?" He nodded. "Jerry's khaki hiking clothes is missing." "He couldn't have been wearing both khaki and flannels," I burst forth triumphantly. "I felt I had gained a point." Henry got up. "I'm going into town," he announced briefly. "I watched him pass out with a feeling of uneasiness. I was desperately afraid of his tenacity of purpose. Turning to MacNair, I said: "You know Jerry's innocence is everything in the world to me. You know my niece is breaking her heart over him. If you have got on to anything—one way or the other—tell me what it is. I don't believe there's an ounce of pity in you! I don't believe it matters to you whether young Jerry is guilty or not." "Frankly," he said coolly, "it doesn't. So long as I hang the man—or woman—who killed Ogden I don't care whether it's your Jerry, Furie, the woman in black, Hubbard, Deacon, John Peebles, or his cat, Polyandria." Turning his back to me, he opened the left-hand top drawer of the desk and began to systematically examine its contents. If my role was to be that of Watson I was determined that it should be an active one. And so I began a close inspection of the balcony outside. Here I came upon something that moved me deeply. It was a dusting of gray white powder in size and form vaguely suggestive of the sole of a man's shoe. I knew the powder might have been deposited the night before. Dipping the tip of my finger into the powder, I put it to my tongue. "Cement," I muttered. "MacNair," I called. When I pointed to the powder, he dropped onto his knees and tasted it. "Cement," he mused. "Hm! Looks as if some one who had stepped in cement had stood here." Puzzled and thoughtful, I got up and watched him brush the powder into an envelope. He went carefully over the rest of the balcony, scrutinized the iron grille, and peered down into the adjacent shrubbery. "Nothing else here," he muttered. I did not feel equal to facing Lucie in my present state of mind, so I lunched with MacNair in town. We were sipping our coffee when my companion said abruptly: "You cannot definitely recall any single detail of the person of that man you fought with this morning?" I shook my head. "So far as we know," MacNair went on, "Hyde was the only one who knew you had that pistol. How old is he?" "About eighty." "Hm! He wouldn't be likely to fight like a wildcat." "No. Although he is a man of unusual vitality." "Indeed. Well, let's see what he's got to say for himself." We found Hyde in his office at the rear of his gloomy shop. He shook hands with me and as I introduced him to MacNair I reflected on the strength of his grip. "Dreadful affair up you; way last night," he consoled. "Too bad," he grumbled, shaking his grumpy old head. "A dreadful business!" His eagle eyes I saw, to my amazement, were moist and he actually blew his nose. "I suppose the boy Jerry hasn't turned up, yet?" "No," I replied briefly. "Mr. MacNair is looking after our interests. That pistol you sold me yesterday afternoon figures in the case. I obeyed."

wish you'd tell us what you know about it." "Ah, the pistol," he said suavely. "No, I don't know anything about it. I saw it was one of Alex Peterson's and I bought it on your account." "Whom did you buy it from?" MacNair rapped out. "Hyde pretended to think 'Let me see, now. Ah! yes.' An old man he was, to be sure. I don't know his name. I never saw him before." "Hm. He was quite old, should say, and of less than the middle height. That's about all I remember of him. Dear me! the memory of mine!" MacNair ignored his pretense of forgetfulness. "Had he a vizen up little face the color of saddle leather, red-rimmed eyes, a shock of unkempt white hair, an eyelid or a wire and the look of a man who has, let us say, prospected for gold all his life?" I thought Hyde was going to lose his temper, but he gave us his smile instead. MacNair's question didn't surprise me. I had already concluded that Hyde had got the Peterson pistol from Furie. "You are quite well informed," Hyde said smoothly. "Why come to me?" He put on his glasses and felt the tail of his coat. For a moment he fumbled there. His hand was away empty and I guessed he had been after his Louis snuff-box. "You were going to say, Mr. MacNair?" "That the name of the man who bought the pistol from Furie, MacNair rapped out. Hyde chuckled. "Perhaps it was a queer chap, Furie." "Did he tell you where he found the revolver?" "No, he didn't." "Have you any idea where the revolver or came from?" "Not the slightest." I think he realized that we didn't believe him for he leaned forward with a confiding air. "Here's a tip that'll stir you up sentiments. I could have sold that pistol again after Peebles bought it." "To whom?" "To Andrew Ogden," said Natha Hyde. "He telephoned me about at six o'clock last night." "What did Ogden say?" MacNair inquired. The dealer chuckled slyly. "He asked me what I'd done with the Alex Peterson revolver. Furie had sold me. I said I had gone and thought I'd jump out of the telephone at me. 'Who's got it?' he barked. I told him and he cooled down." MacNair looked at me. "That was why Ogden telephoned you." I nodded unthinkingly, overwhelmed by a sense of failure. If I had gone to Andrew at once he probably would have been alive now. (Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)

DEPARTMENT STORES
FIGHTING AGAINST SLUMP OF SUMMER

Keep Your Temper and Your Customers, Clerks Are Cautioned

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York — Retail merchants have started this week a vigorous campaign against the "summer slump" in retail business. They have seen the manufacturer plow
through the periods of usual decline without a check this year and are determined to do likewise. For the day has passed when the merchant is content to sit down and assume that he is in for a dull period in the summer.

Vacation schedules are being more carefully worked out than ever before, although vacations for sales forces will be more extensive than in the past. The more experienced and competent clerks will not be allowed to leave indiscriminately. A backbone of experienced workers will always be left to stiffen the efforts of the newcomers and substitutes.

Department store clerks in most cases are given a vacation after one year's service and a vacation time with pay is extended to a fortnight with continued length of service, but employers consider a vacation so important nowadays that the most advanced ones are giving their clerks from a day or two to a week in the winter time as well.

WANT COOL CLERKS
They realize that the hot, tired, short tempered clerk brings, with added emphasis, to the buyers the fact that they also are hot, tired and short tempered. Many stores are so arranging their electric fans as to give the clerks the utmost comfort as well as the customers. Most of the big stores are paying as much attention to ventilation and air refrigeration as the theatre owners,
who have proved that summer weather need not keep patrons away.

Merchandising experts are advising their clients to keep the stores exceedingly bright instead of darkening them during the hot days. They point out that there is more light outside and that more artificial light should be used in the show windows and inside the stores to give the appearance of daylight lighting. The use of white or cream-colored fixtures, the experts say, gives a cool effect. They advocate the immediate removal of any marks such as might be made on showcases, fixtures of pillars by damp hands and emphasize the necessity of an adequate number of supplies of ice water, with paper cups furnished free.

The majority of the big stores in the metropolitan districts are taking steps through mail campaigns to keep in touch with customers who have left town for the summer. A goodly number are extending rather than curtailing their delivery services and some now deliver with their own wagons to points 60 to 80 miles from the store. They are also making a special effort to fill orders

Rural School Pupils
Build Bird Houses

Above are shown the students of Oak Leaf rural school, town of Seymour, with bird coops which they made under direction of their teacher, Miss Ruby Feavel, as a project for Arbor day last month. The pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades made bird coops and some of the girls did work that equalled the houses built by the boys. Twenty of the students took part in the project and completed houses which were set up at the students' homes. This was the only school in the county which conducted a project of this kind for Arbor day.

received by mail, express or parcel post in order to meet and overcome
the attraction offered by the mail order houses, which have been able to fill orders to summer resort customers with a minimum of delay owing to the opening of new warehouses and stores.

SCATTER WAREHOUSES
The larger units of the department store class are scattering warehouses
of their own at advantageous points, from each of which a line of trucks starts out each day. Even those without such warehouses overcome the difficulties by having some of their trucks run approximately 50 miles from the store before starting to make deliveries.

It has proved highly advantageous
in the past for the stores to increase rather than diminish their advertising space in the city papers. Most of the families who spend the summer out of town, have their local papers sent to them regularly. Advertisements thus brought to their attention emphasize the type of goods they are able to secure at their home store in comparison with the limited stocks of the small shops
in the less densely populated summer resorts.

Finally executives are placing the utmost stress on the slogan "Keep your tempers and your customers" and hammer it at their clerks at every opportunity.

Madison —(P)— The assembly has "gone informal." Con-

members shall keep their coats

Speaker Charles B. Perry sheds

CALIFORNIA DRY CHIEF
QUITS HIS POSITION

San Francisco —(P)— Announcing he had decided to get out of the prohibition business, E. R. Bohner, federal prohibition administrator for Northern California, last night telegraphed his resignation to the treasury department at Washington.
Bohner, who has held his present position since March 1, 1927, declared that the recent indictment of six of his subordinates on charges of withholding seized goods from the government had nothing to do with his resignation.

"I have no desire to be identified again with the prohibition department," Bohner said. "It is a position of grief."

motor car color design—a variety so wide as to give almost individual distinction, at no extra cost. It is a new industrial achievement!

More than 225 different color combinations on various models
were delivered last month by the Hudson Motor Car Co.
That is why, although nearly 200,000 Essex the Challengers are in service; there is a sparkling variety and individuality about each car, instead of the monotonous sameness expected in big production.

The tremendous buying swing to Essex the Challenger—with nearly 200,000 in service in five months—is the popular answer to

how it upholds its sweeping challenge to motorroom.
Hydraulic shock absorbers and new type double-action 4-wheel brakes are standard—they do not cost one cent extra.
The same with radiator shutters, air cleaner, windshield wiper, safety lock, chromium-plated bright parts. All valuable features—all features you want. Add up for yourself the extras Essex offers at no added cost and you will see above $100 in extra value in those items alone.

RADIO-TELEPHONE SERVICE TO SHIPS FINALLY PERFECTED

Leviathan Will Be Equipped With New Phones in Few Months

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington — Another great discovery in radio, by which telephone conversations may be carried on between land and vessels on the high seas, has been made by engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and shortly will be put into practical operation.

The Leviathan, American Queen of the seas, will be equipped with complete radio-telephone service as an immediate result. Thus, every one of the 18,000,000 American Telephone and Telegraph company, and shortly will be put into practical operation. The Leviathan, American Queen of the seas, will be equipped with complete radio-telephone service as an immediate result. Thus, every one of the 18,000,000 American Telephone and Telegraph company, and shortly will be put into practical operation.

There will be installed aboard the Leviathan a radio-telephone switchboard, connecting to telephones in every stateroom and cabin on the gigantic liner.

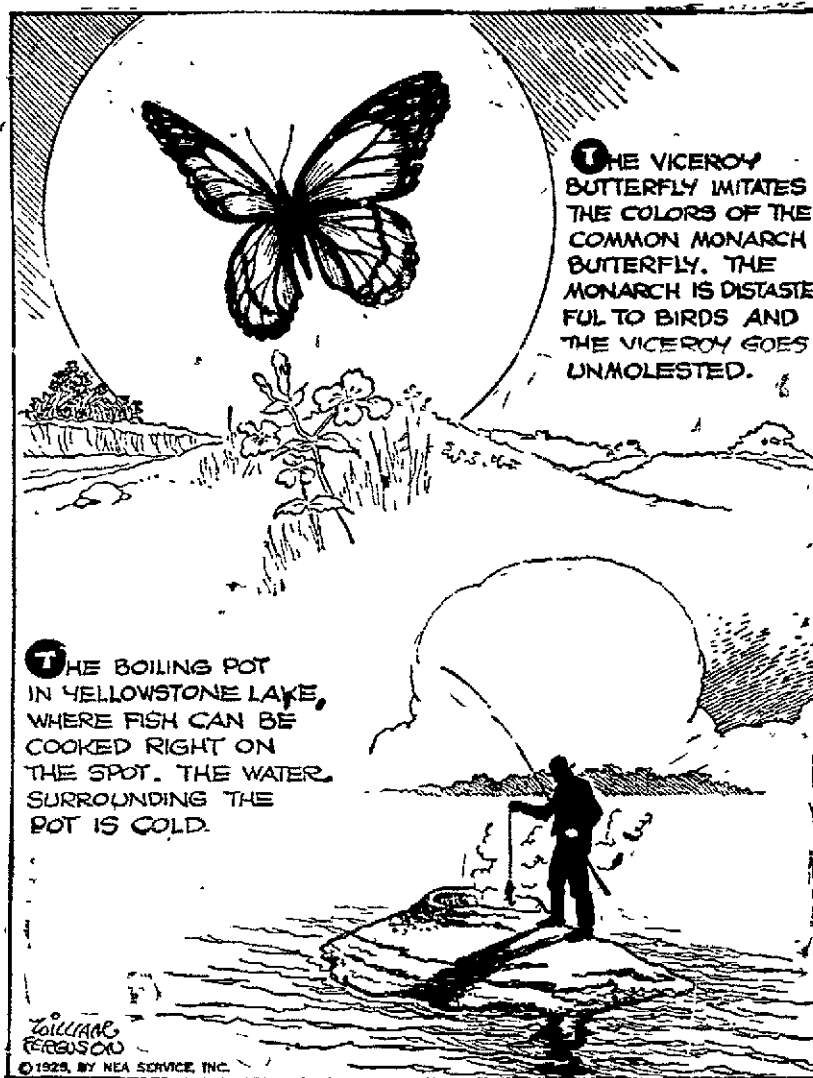

It will be entirely separate from the regular wireless communications service aboard the vessel, operated by the Radio Corporation of America. A totally different staff will operate the system.

TO SPEND $750,000

Within a few months after commissioning, action is taken, perhaps six months at the outside, direct telephone conversation with passengers on the Leviathan will be possible. The A. T. and T. has outlined a program which will entail an expenditure of $750,000 for establishment of the service. The land station, through which the contacts will be made with the vessel, is at Deal, N. J., and already is operating. Since 1920 it has been employed in experiments which have culminated in the discovery that ship to shore radio-telephony is practicable.

The most expensive phase of the undertaking is the tying up of the land station with the Bell Telephone system of the country. Aboard the vessel the telegraph "plant" will employ 500 watts power, and work into the central switchboard for the radio service. The ground station will use a greater amount of power.

The rates to be charged for this service have not yet been determined. The radio-telephone rates from New York to London is $45 for the first three minutes. It is likely that the "mobile" rates will be proportional to the distance of the vessel from the coast at the time the contact is made, with the usual "long distance" rate from interior points to the New York land station.

The A. T. and T. has applied for four frequencies in both the continental mobile and trans-oceanic mobile bands. This is to care for the various distances that must be covered in maintaining the telephone contacts all the way across.

CHANNEL SERIES NEEDED
For example, a wave in the 3,000 kilocycle band might suffice for communication only to a maximum of 500 miles, while a wave in the 4,000 kilocycle band would be of no value up to this distance, but is adapted for service from 500 to 1,000 miles or so. Thus, a series of channels, each with the capacity of a gradually increasing "skip distance" is necessary to maintain communication all the way across on the 3,500

LEGIONAIRES WILL ADVERTISE JULY 4 CELEBRATION SUNDAY

Oney Johnston Veterans Plan Tour of Outagamie-County

Appleton will celebrate July 4 this year for the first time in several years, and the celebration will be a royal one, if plans of Oney Johnston post of the American legion are carried to completion.

Sunday the veterans will collect about 50 automobiles and set forth with an orchestra to tell the folks in the county just what they intend to do Independence day. They'll carry "bombs" to be set off whenever they hit a village, city or hamlet, and then proceed to tell folks what they have in mind for their celebration.

One of the features of the day's entertainment will be a parade in which youngsters in the city have been asked to take a big part—the biggest part, as a matter of fact, because the kids usually have numerous good ideas in the backs of their woolly heads.

The youngsters will be asked to stage a circus and none will be barred—not will any of the exhibits or stunts they wish to display. Entry blanks for the parade may be secured from M. G. Clark, valley council boy scout executive, whose proteges also will be entered and who will have charge of the particular activity.

First announcement of the proposed parade and plans for it brought forth a flock of applications and the folks in the city and county appear to be in for a big time during the parade.

PLAN MOTORCYCLE RACE
The state motorcycle meet also will be held in Appleton July 4, and the entrants will take part in the day's parade. One of the features of their coming to Appleton will be a motorcycle polo game which will be played between Madison and Kenosha, two of the crack teams in the state.

Another of the big sporting events will be an amateur boxing show. The legion has organized a fight club which has been incorporated. Arrangements now are being made for the card. Bouts will probably be staged out of doors or at Armory G. A display of military strength also is being planned for with Capt. Clyde P. Schroeder of Co. D, 127th infantry in charge. Co. D will march in the parade as will Co. I of Neenah and probably the headquarters company of the first battalion, 127th infantry, also of Neenah.

LITTLE JOE

NEW TEMPER ARE NUMEROUS ENOUGH THAT THEY'RE NOT ODD.

The Appleton guards also will stage a machine gun maneuver during the day, one of the few times the public is given a chance to watch the men in action.

Activities July 4 probably will center about Erb park in the Sixth ward. Lunch stands will be erected there by numerous organizations and there will be other booths and stands of various kinds, all in charge of legionnaires or other Appleton organizations.

The city will be decorated in a fitting manner for the day's activity. Appleton chamber of commerce taking over the project with A. B. Schuerle as general chairman.

Numerous old time stunts will feature the general program at Erb park. There will be a greased pig to thrill the crowd and reward someone with a couple of dollars when caught, a greased pole with a couple of dollar bills flying at the top, a pie eating contest and similar sports.
